How to Solve Fall Flower Problems

stray petals from autumn flowers are easily dealt with by this efficient young homemaker, who whisks them away as they fall with her carpet sweeper.

HOMEMAKERS who try to bring the beauty of autumn into their homes in the form of flower arrangements often find themselves regretting the effort.

Stiff-stemmed fall flowers are often difficult to arrange, and when they begin shedding, spread petals in profusion all about them.

If you, too, have reached the point where you feel asters and chrysanthemums are better left in the garden or the florist shop, here are some tips that may help you regard them as more pleasure than bother.

Use crumpled chicken wire in the base of your vase as a foundation for your flower arrangement. First fill the chicken wire with leaves, and then place the flower stems one by one.

If your arrangement seems bunched because of the heavy heads of the flower, include a few sprays of wild grass as background. These will lend balance as well as grace.

As the season wears on, and autumn blossoms become scarce, try using fruit and vegetables as centerpieces. Such homely kitchen provisions as eggplant and squash have rich color tones that can add decided beauty to your home.

Much of the shedding of chrysanthemums can be avoided if care is taken to place them in a spot where they will not be brushed against. Bruised petals are the ones that tend to fall.

When shedding starts, it helps to apply a drop of wax to the base of the loosened petals to hold them in place. This is done by holding a lighted candle over the crucial spot and allowing it to drip.

To keep stray petals from marring the appearance of your home, keep the litter cleared away as they fall. Carpet sweepers are excellent for quick clean-ups without back-bending.

New models, which function efficiently without arm pressure from the user, make this a near-effortless chore. The trick is in the improved brush action, which adjusts automatically to short, medium or long nap carpets.

German Exchange Student Tells Lynch Pupils Conditions Improve in Deutschland

LYNCH — Miss Emilie Timmer, 35, exchange student from Darmstadt, Germany, spent a few days with the Benedictine Sisters at the Sacred Heart hospital at Lynch.

Miss Timmer, who is a social worker, accompanied Sister Pricilla of the Lynch hospital to the Lynch high school where she gave a short talk to the students.

Miss Timmer said: "I like America, I like the homes, the schools and I like the hospitals, too. Germany does not have too much future to look forward to, but Germans are working hard. The families are rebuilding their homes and slowly getting back to normal."

You can buy what you want in Germany as the supply of food is getting better."

Miss Timmer attended the summer school at the Catholic university in Washington D. C., and plans to return to Germany in December. She will then report on what she has seen.

Miss Timmer studies religion, theology and sociology and plans to apply what she learned in her work in America.

She is also studying the role of Christian woman of today and Christian organizations.

The national Catholic welfare conference is the immediate sponsor of her trip to America which was made by plane.

LIGHT · MEDIUM · HEAVY MODELS
Made in widest variety of engine-body-chassis combinations to fit every trucking need

Think twice today when you buy a truck!

THAT new truck you're considering may have to last a long time. So you'll be wise to look at a GMC for these important reasons.

GMC's are built by the world's largest exclusive manufacturer of commercial vehicles—with the broadest truck engineering experience.

GMC's are real trucks. Engine, transmission and frame, as well as cab and axles, are all specially truck-built to give you longer service. GMC truck-built engines have high horsepower with higher sustained torque—greater pulling power. They are built to give extra years of service with less maintenance.

GMC extra-value features include Synchro-Mesh transmission, Tocco-hardened crankshaft, full-pressure lubrication, recirculating ball-bearing steering gear, airplane-type bearings and Lifetime Weather-sealed cabs as standard equipment on practically all models from 1/2 ton up.

That's why more truckers are buying GMC's today than ever before—experience proves them best in the long haul!
