Nothing Better Than Good Food, Says Ohio Man

If a man isn't able to eat the foods he likes he's in mighty sorry shape—imagine going through life without being able to enjoy a fine big platter of bacon and eggs. That is the way Joseph N. Dammill, 3414 E. 5th Street, Dayton, Ohio, used to be, but since he has been taking HADACOL, he says he feels just fine and is able to enjoy lots and lots of fine foods. Mr. Dammill found that taking HADACOL helped his system overcome a deficiency of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mr. Dammill's statement: "My first bottle of HADACOL convinced me that HADACOL was what I needed for the gas on my stomach at nights. I could not keep food on my stomach, but after the first bottle I was going great. Now I eat bacon and eggs, and other foods that never would stay with me. I also can sleep well at nights. Thanks to HADACOL, I will never be without it, and can recommend it to all who suffer with the above ailments that I had. I know because I have suffered for quite some time."

State Capitol News —

Sen. Burney Revives Sales Tax Bill; Would Become Effective October 1

By MELVIN PAUL
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — It was quite a weekend in the Nebraska legislature: The long-awaited sales tax bill was introduced; Bills were offered which would allow the voters in 1952 to decide whether to legalize bingo and outlaw betting on horse races.

Salary increases for state officers (which have gotten nowhere in past sessions) were sailing along without much opposition; A ton-mile tax on trucks and buses started through the mill; Gov. Val Peterson signed the session's first batch of laws, including one to appropriate $100,000 for a state civil defense agency, and legislative leaders applauded Governor Peterson's budget message.

If at First You Don't Succeed . . .

The sales tax bill was offered by Sen. Dwight Burney, of Hartington, who authored a similar measure two years ago. His co-introducers are Sens. Chris Metzger, of Cedar Creek, and Charles Lindgren, of Campbell.

The measure would levy a tax of two percent on all purchases of more than 21 cents, with several exceptions, including motor fuels on which a tax had already been paid equal to or greater than the Nebraska tax, feeds, fertilizers and several other items used in agricultural production, and sales made by religious and charitable organizations.

The measure, as drafted, would become effective October 1, 1951. Burney estimates it would produce $25,000,000 a year.

Part of the income would go as replacement for the state's property tax which last year amounted to approximately $13,000,000 according to records in the office of the state tax commissioner. The rest, Burney said, would go to the state general fund, unless the legislature earmarked it for something else.

Parimutuel Has Lots of Support

Gambling bills flew thick and fast as the deadline for introduction of bills by individual members approached. Sen. Hugh Carson, of Ord, proposed that the 1952 general election ballot carry the issue of whether Nebraskans want to continue legalized parimutuel betting. The state constitution now provides that the legislature shall not be prevented from enacting laws regulating horse race betting. This amendment was adopted in 1934, along with the unicameral legislature.

Technically, Carson could simply ask the legislature to repeal the parimutuel statutes, but he figures he'd have a better chance with the voters than with the senators.

He's almost sure to have the Omaha and Lincoln delegations against him—that's 10 votes—besides the legislators from districts where race meets are held and fair board supporters.

The same day Carson moved to outlaw parimutuels, his neighbor in the senate chamber, K. W. Peterson, of Sargent, tossed in a bill to put on the ballot a proposal legalizing bingo for fraternal and religious groups. They were the ones which set up the loud-squawks in the fall of 1949 when James H. Anderson, then the attorney general, cracked down on all kinds of illegal gambling in the state.

The people who spent their time watching the legislature in action and inaction pointed out the difficulty of enforcing the Peterson law, if it becomes law. "What constitutes a fraternal organization?" one man asked. "I've got a couple of brothers. Does that mean we can set up shop and stage bingo games every Saturday night?"

Carson didn't stop with his bill to put the mutual issue on the ballot. Next day he proposed a state tax of five percent on the total amount wagered at each Nebraska track and asked that half of the breakage—the odd pennies—go to the state school funds, as would the five percent tax.

The state should realize about $650,000 a year from such an arrangement, he figures.

If nothing else, the Carson proposal has the management of Ak-Sar-Ben tied into knots. The Omaha race meeting is far and away the state's biggest and most profitable. There seems little doubt that one way or another the tracks are going to pay more to the state this year.

Committee Kills Assistance Increase

Salary boosts for the state auditor, state treasurer, secretary of state, attorney-general and superintendent of public instruction, as well as for the three railway commissioners, passed their first test on the floor with only one voice raised in question.

Sen. Sam Klaver, the doughy little battler from Omaha was feeling pretty low because the public health committee had killed his old age assistance raise by a 4-to-3 vote and an impassioned, 40-minute plea on the floor failed by four votes to get the bill revived. He was told that the senators must "hold the line" on state spending, a policy widely publicized by the Omaha World Herald.

Klaver looked toward the high windows in the spacious chamber and inquired with mock seriousness, "Which window did all this hold the line policy fly out of?"

But the salary bills went ahead. The miscellaneous appropriations committee had amended Sen. Glenn Cramer's bill to raise the five constitutional officers from $5,000 to $6,500 and the railway commissioners from $5,000 to $6,000. Cramer had asked $7,500 for all. Sen. C. C. Lillibridge, committee chairman explained that the group felt that since the commissioners have to campaign only every six years, they didn't need quite so much money as the others who are elected for two-year terms.

Dakota City Senator Will Hear Soon Enough

The ton-mile tax, introduced by Sens. Hal Bridenbaugh, of Dakota City, Glenn Cramer, of Albion, and Otto Prohs, of Gering, would net the state about $2,500,000 a year, Bridenbaugh said.

The Dakota City senator said the measure he's offering is only tentative and he would like to hear from truckers and others interested in the road program.

"He'll hear from the truckers soon enough," another senator grinned. The Nebraska Motor Carriers' association is expected to unlimber its heaviest artillery against the proposal.

The truck tax would range from seven mills a mile on eight ton trucks to 3.9 cents on the 25-ton "rubber-tired boxcars."

Governor Entertaining At Breakfast

One bill that is expected to have smooth sailing is the proposal of Sens. Charley Wilson, of Norfolk, Glenn Cramer, of Albion, and Otto Liebers, of Lincoln, to hike the salary of the governor's private secretary from $3,600 to $4,500. As long as picture-pretty Marie Krumwiede, Governor Peterson's titian-dressed secretary holds down the job, she can count on plenty of support. . . . The Governor has been entertaining five senators at a time at breakfast at the mansion so he can talk with them informally about the problems of state . . . Sen. Herbert J. Duis, the personable youngster from Gothenburg, who was discharged from his master sergeant's uniform to "miffed" at a member of the state-house press corps. Duis told the reporter he had been approached by a representative of the Nebraska Education association to sponsor the state aid to education bill.

"You mean they're down to you?" the newsman gasped. Duis, pretending to be offended.
