3d Teacher in Term at Celia

CELIA—If variety is the spice of life, the pupils of school district 246, better known as the Hendricks school, will have had an interesting school year.

'They now have their third different teacher this term. The first teacher, Mrs. Roy Worth, of O'Neill, resigned on account of her health.

Mrs. Orville Orr, of Atkinson, took over until a permanent teacher could be found. And now, Mrs. Donna Carson, of near Amelia, who was teaching 16 miles south of Atkinson, near the Charles Petersen ranch, brings her only pupil, Judy Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, up to the Hendricks school daily, making a drive of 30 miles to teach the school.

Mrs. Carson's husband is a teacher in the Amelia school.
