The dog, according to Dalton, was kept tied up and had not circulated freely with other dogs. Doctor Bennett explains that the bite of a rabid dog usually is fatal to humans. Cats, he explained, are the worst carriers, but the disease is found among all warm-blooded animals, including rats, mice, squirrels, etc. Until recent years the Dakotas and Nebraska were thought to be free of rabies.

First news of the rabies incident was made public on the Wednesday morning "Voice of The Frontier" program. By Wednesday afternoon the O'Neill veterinarians were swamped with calls to vaccinate pets.

High Water Run-Off Is Orderly

Total rainfall in O'Neill last week—Sunday, May 13, through Saturday, May 19—amounted to 3.84 inches officially.

And by Monday evening another quarter of an inch was added.

By Wednesday, May 16, water along the upper reaches of the Elkhorn river was approaching all-time flood levels, but as the water moved downstream to Ewing and eastward the runoff became orderly.

There was considerable apprehension Thursday over the Atkinson conservation dam. Frank J. Brady, of Atkinson, chairman of the state game and forestation commission, ordered baled hay reinforcement placed along the earthen dam.

Brady reassured the public the dam would hold and his confidence proved correct.

Water was running over U.S. highway 20-273, 3 miles east of O'Neill, from Wednesday, May 16, through Friday. Sometime early Saturday the water receded. Traffic was not halted, however, but proceeded cautiously through the 1,000-yard path.

State highway 11, south of Atkinson, was closed until Tuesday, May 22, because of washouts of several approaches to bridges. The road generally has been in poor condition. Tuesday morning the road was opened to automobiles and light trucks. By today normal traffic is expected to be resumed.

Frid., water was running over several spots on U.S. highway 281, south of O'Neill.

About 3 miles west of Chambers, on state highway 95, water was running over the road Friday and Saturday.

A washout on the mainline of the Chicago & North Western railroad west of Long Pine forced the eastbound passenger-mail train number 14 to run about 15 hours late last Thursday. Because the same equipment was to be used to make up train number 13 on Friday morning, the latter westbound train ran about 7 hours late. By Saturday morning mainline trains were back on schedule.

The high water did not disrupt Burlington schedules on the O'Neill-Sioux City branch.

Tuesday and Wednesday the sun shone liberally for the first time in several weeks, and the ground was being dried fast by the accompanying wind.
