Coyne Sisters Now in Paris

The Misses Veronica and Mary Kathryn Coyne wrote their parents, the H. E. Coynes, on board ship enroute to Europe, where they will visit points of interest.

Before embarking, they had dinner in New York with their sister, Dr. Nadene Coyne, and Mrs. Bob Earley.

After they were settled aboard ship and had sailed, mail was distributed which brought telegrams, letters and gifts from well-wishers.

Interesting dinner guests on board were Mrs. Wauneta Mitchell, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. Tracy, an English professor at Kentucky university, who was going to Frankfurt, Germany, to study; Colman Rosenbloom, a Swiss violinist who was going to give concerts in Switzerland for the summer, and Joe Azaro, an American artist and sculptor who was going to Paris for an indefinite stay.

The ladies wrote that they were lucky not to have been seasick to spoil the entertainment that had been planned for the voyagers.

After docking at Plymouth, England, Wednesday, May 30, they took a boat train to Le-Havre, France, and then left for Paris, where they met a girl friend, who is living in Paris.
