

Ponca Suddenly Adopts New Course

LYNCH—The old saying that "a stream can change its own course" has been proved near the Guy Mulhair place, about 4 miles east of Lynch.

The Ponca creek, having overflowed with water several times this spring, on June 21 broke an entire new path by angling across Guy Mulhair's field. The stream now runs along highway 12 straight for the bridge east of Guy Mulhair's.

Much speculation is being done by highway officials as to just what might happen to the highway and also the highway bridge if more flood waters come. This new bed was made by the Ponca after the high water had subsided.
