

Find Farm Energized Upon Trip Return

CELIA—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Terwilliger left Tuesday, October 2, for Omaha where they visited friends and relatives and attended Ak-Sar-Ben. From there they went to Nebraska City, Lincoln, Eagle and Beatrice where they visited friends in each of the cities.

Near Beatrice they visited Mrs. Terwilliger's 86-year-old uncle and family, whom they hadn't seen for around 25 years. They found most of the crops safe from frost and a big acreage of wheat which was looking especially good. But they said Holt county "still looked like paradise" to them and termed it "God's own country."

When they returned home on Thursday, October 11, they found that their REA lines had been energized and were thrilled to turn on the light switch and have lights in their new home.

'Living with Christ' Convention Theme

"Living With Christ and Serving Him" inspire the convention theme and panel discussion at the annual meeting of the Omaha archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, which will be held Monday, October 22, at St. Bonaventure's church in Columbus. The organization's 27th convention will be opened with a 9 a.m. mass, Archbishop Gerald T. Bergan, celebrant. The archbishop will also be guest speaker at the luncheon in the Columbus city auditorium at 1 p.m. Registration will take place from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. and continue after mass.

Friday is the deadline for luncheon reservations. In charge of reservations are Mrs. J. G. Ternes, 1563-23rd ave., or Mrs. P. W. Lakers, 1467-24th ave., both in Columbus.

Mrs. J. W. Hickey of O'Neill is serving on the nominations committee at the convention.

Mrs. D. E. Mitchell archdiocesan president from Jackson, will be in charge of the opening session at 10 a.m. and reports from the deanery council presidents will follow.

Rev. John S. Juricek, Omaha archdiocesan moderator, will give the opening prayer.

Nebraska deanery presidents are: Mmes. Emil Hruza, of Central City; Adam Wietfeld, of Osmond; G. E. Peters, of Randolph; Joseph Kruse, of Humphrey; James Zoubeck, of Stanton; Ted Kalamja, of Omaha; Hugh J. Birmingham, of O'Neill; Ludwig Stanek, of Snyder; Miss Lorena Powers, of North Bend, and Miss Mary McQuillen, of South Sioux City.

In addition to Archbishop Bergan, other speakers on the program will be the Rev. Roch Hettlinger, of St. Bonaventure. Mrs. John Hopkins, Omaha, and Mrs. F. M. Bruening, Hartington, state regent of the Catholic Daughters of America. Presiding at the luncheon will be Mrs. Robert G. O'Brien, first vice-president, from Omaha.

The day will close with a 3:30 p.m. tea at the city auditorium under the sponsorship of the Lindsay deanery council.
