The bus depot that was to open last week did not fully materialize. One trip was made to Bartlett and back; the route was delayed until a later date.

Rev. Guy W. Ballard returned home Saturday night from Hampton, and Iowa Falls, Iowa, where he received his official appointment as administrator of the estate of a deceased uncle. Rev. and Mrs. Ballard went to Sioux City and Omaha Tuesday morning on business connected with the estate. They are expected home Saturday evening.

Considerable moving has been going on during the past eight or ten days. Several farmers have held sales and quit farming; others have moved away from this vicinity while others have changed places with their neighbors. Pat Regan has moved from his farm northeast of O'Neill to the Piccadilla ranch near Stafford; Ed Jardine who has been on the Bratt farm for the past year has moved to the Regan farm; Nels Bergstrom who has resided on the Piccadilla ranch has moved to the Shobe farm eight miles south of Stafford.

Clearwater, Nebraska: Goose Lake situated in southern Holt County was the first lake purchased by the state for the purpose of a public fishing and recreation grounds. This purchase was brought through the efforts of the chapter at Clearwater, Nebraska with the assistance of other neighboring chapters. Since the state has purchased this lake the Clearwater chapter has continually urged the state for improvements on the same. The property is well fenced, stock proof, and the same has been landscaped and some 3600 trees were planted in the spring of 1927. Also the Bureau of Fish and Game furnished the chapter with 600 lbs. of bulbs and seeds of water plants and they were planted this last spring which has made a suitable growth and greatly changed the appearance of the lake. The state has sunk four artesian wells and this past month have had a man on the ground drilling for deeper and better wells in the second and third veins of gravel which we expect will produce a suitable volume of water for this lake. Last fall our chapter bought an auto gate according to state specifications on the north side of the lake, the state furnishing the material, and the chapter the work free of charge. On November 27th the state sent us between 1000 and 1200 pickerel that average 13 inches in length and we released them in the lake. At the present time we are working with the state to have a spillway put in at the outlet of the lake so that we can control the water level. After the lake is once properly stocked it will become one of the finest fish resorts in central Nebraska.

Mr. Kilmen, of Gailsville, Illinois, was a guest at the J. C. Harnish home last Monday. Mr. Kilman and Mrs. Harnish were schoolmates when they were "young folks."

O'NEILL MAY HAVE A BROADCASTING STATION

O'Neill capitalists are making plans to install a broadcasting station in this city in the near future, with wattage enough to cover Holt county and this immediate trade territory. Regular daily programs will be broadcast along with a reasonable amount of advertising by the various wholesale and retail institutions of the city.

If the present plans are carried out the station will be located in the upper part of the Golden hotel for the present until it is fully determined that the venture will pay its way.

The Frontier can see no reason why O'Neill should not have a station as it is located in a large territory; there are no other stations near us.

Here's hoping that the promoters are successful in developing the venture.

BERNARD DOYLE.

A message was received Monday by O'Neill friends announcing the death Sunday of Bernard Doyle at the hospital in Grand Rapids, Michigan, following an operation for goitre.

Bernard was the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Doyle, former residents of city. He was born and grew to manhood in O'Neill and enjoyed a large circle of friends.

The Doyles moved from O'Neill a few years ago; Mrs. Doyle passed away since the family left this city.

Further particulars will appear next week.
