J. V. Johnson made a trip to Wausa, Knox county, Saturday, returning Sunday, bringing his sister, Mrs. Monson, to her home, and since he needed something heavier to help hold the car down he stopped at O'Neill and took the Honorable County Judge Malone along. The party was overtaken between Brunswick and Plainview by the storm. The wind, dirt and clouds almost created an Egyptian darkness. Sometimes the driver couldn't see more than a rod or two ahead; the lights were turned on and with the aid of the Judge, who is a good squinter as well as backseat driver, they got to Plainview without any mishap. A heavy rain fall throughout the country. The Judge enjoyed his visit in Wausa immensely, it being his stopping ground about twenty-seven years ago, when he acted in the capacity of superintendent of the public school for four years. All his old friends were very glad to see him, especially the old maids, who has not been able to quite forget, the Judge was very strict in school.
