CUTTING--Second Of The Four Cs of Diamond Value

Proper cutting and polishing contribute more to the beauty of a diamond than perfection or flawlessness or the absence of slight tinges of body color. Diamonds may be improperly cut in order to save carat weight, or to give the APPEARANCE of a larger stone. Whatever the reason, value, beauty, and brilliance is always sacrificed when a diamond is improperly cut or poorly polished.

Let Bill McIntosh, Jeweler, explain this difference before you buy. QUALITY FOR QUALITY, WE FIND OUR DIAMONDS ARE LESS THAN "SO CALLED WHOLESALE".
