

Morgans Sweep Atkinson Flower Show Honors

This little girl traveled all the way from Clifton, Illinois with her mother to visit her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Ballagh of Amelia. She was too young, perhaps, to appreciate the flowers, but plenty young enough to be appreciated.

Mrs. G. E. Morgan of Atkinson was the grand champion arrangement and composition winner in the eighth annual gladiolus show Saturday. She is shown here with her blue ribbon and her "blue ribbon" display. See story.

One of the most beautiful arrangements at the eighth annual gladiolus show in Atkinson was displayed by Mrs. Opal Keating. She won first place honors in the dinner table competition. She was this year's show chairman.

Over 400 flower lovers attended the eighth annual gladiolus and flower show of the Atkinson Civic Improvement Garden club Saturday.

Mr. G. E. Morgan of Atkinson won top honors at the show when he was awarded the North American Gladiolus Council silver medal for having won the greatest number of first place points in the specimen classes.

Mr. Morgan (Gib) received 28 firsts, 13 seconds, and 1 third. Gib also received the North American Gladiolus Council rosette for the grand champion spike. Gib's spike was called "Sugar Ell" and is a new variety just introduced this past year.

Mrs. Morgan added to family honors with her arrangement called "Bon Voyage". For this arrangement, Mrs. Morgan won the rosette presented by the Nebraska Gladiolus Society and a blue ribbon for the same arrangement.

Travelers from as far away as Illinois attended the flower show sponsored by the club in cooperation with the Nebraska Gladiolus Society and the North American Gladiolus Council.

Mrs. Opal Keating was the show chairman and Mrs. Olive Skrdla is the president of the Atkinson club.

Other winners of first places at the show: Arrangements, Mrs. G. Morgan, gladiolus with foliage only; Mrs. Fred Mack, a modern arrangement; Opal Keating, pink gladiolus predominating; Mrs. N. P. McKee, an all green arrangement; Mrs. N. P. McKee, blue tones predominating; Mrs. R. F. Griffin, a triangular arrangement; Mrs. Alfred Martens, a vertical arrangement and Mrs. R. F. Griffin, a crescent arrangement.

Compositions Used with Accessories winners were: Patricia Schneider, composition using driftwood and composition using shells and other accessories; Opal Keating, using fruits and vegetables and accessories; Mrs. G. E. Morgan, composition in a reverential manner; Mrs. Fred Mack, white gladiolus with evergreen and a composition using yellow gladiolus only; Mrs. G. E. Morgan, composition with red gladiolus only; Jessie Steinkamp, personal arrangement titled "Resume Speed"; and Mrs. Fred Mack, an arrangement for niches.

Informal dinner table arrangement and buffet table arrangement first prize winner was Opal Keating.
