

The Glen Fouce family is among the most recent newcomers to O'Neill. The three children are, from left, Susan, 3½, Stephen, 2 and Stewart, 1.

Fouces Are New In Town

Among the new people who have moved to O'Neill in the past few months are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Fouce and their three children. Mr. Fouce is a salesman for Swift's Packing Co. and does a good deal of traveling in his work. Shirley and Glen moved to O'Neill in May from Boston, Mass., where Glenn had been stationed in the Air Force. Previous to being in the service, Glenn attended Iowa State University, Ames, Ia., where he graduated in Industrial Economics.

Taking up most of Shirley's time are the three Fouce children, Susan, 3½, Stephen, 2, and Stewart, 1. Before she was married Shirley also attended Iowa State for one year. The Fouces will already be familiar to O'Neill golfers as much of their summer activity has been playing golf and attending Country Club events. Shirley is also a new member of the O'Neill Women's Club and Glenn plans to bowl this fall and winter.

Besides these activities, both Shirley and Glenn enjoy bridge. Shirley also likes to sew when she has time and Glenn has developed an interest in model railroads. So far the hobby is small, says Shirley, but Glenn hopes to add slowly to his collection. Part of Glenn's training in the air force was jet pilot training and he also worked with radar.

The Fouces are very happy to be in O'Neill, and one reason is because they feel settled down at last. While in the air force, they lived in Missouri, Florida, Texas and Boston. While they enjoyed the traveling, it feels good to stay in one place, says Shirley. Glenn's ultimate goal in his job is to work towards sales manager of the company, a position his father now holds in Sioux City. The Fouces are now living at 112 W. Clay.
