In the ball she saw in succession scenes which appeared to the audience from behind the outline of a large red heart. First was the arrival of the bridegroom, as a tiny baby in the Bernhardt home; followed by the arrival of Carol as a baby in the Tracy home. These were followed by various events in their lives, climaxed by the wedding. Each scene was highlighted by an appropriate song. Participating were: Kay Tracy, Moni Tracy, Mrs. Russell Barelman, Mrs. T. E. Alderson, Mrs. Lloyd Hilligas, Mrs. Laverne Hoerle, Mrs. William Ritterbush, and Mrs. Crawford. ballots and other election materials from a few firms that specialize in this activity.

The secretary of state certifies ballots and names that go on them at the state level, but there are also county and local elections. It is these areas which produce cooperation between Marsh and the county officials so that a standard approach is kept as to how ballots are printed.

The secretary certifies the ballot to county clerks 45 days before the general election, or on September 24, and 50 days before the primary, on March 21.

Patient Costs
The increase in the cost of living has caught up again with counties who send patients to the state mental hospitals.

The Board of Control announced that on March 1 it will cost counties $3.30 per day for each patient kept in mental hospitals at Norfolk, Lincoln and Hastings and the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in Omaha.

The old rate was $4.80. At the Beatrice state home, the cost will go from $2.35 to $2.50 per day.

Under state law, the Board of Control figures how much it costs to keep a patient in the hospitals for one day, and then bills the counties for the days someone from a particular county is in a mental institution.

Decision of the board to increase the per diem costs was unanimous. The counties pay to the state about $15 million every two years for patients they have sent to the institutions.

to raise the money to keep county residents in the institutions.

The board said it regretted the increase but added that it is necessary, despite the fact that the number of patients in the mental institutions has dropped by about 800 in the last five years.

There has been no corresponding reduction of staff feasible, the board said, and cost of utilities, maintenance and other similar items has not declined, regardless of the number of patients in an institution.

Johnson Retires

A familiar figure in the statehouse has retired. He is Gus Johnson of Ceresco, who for 17 years headed the bond and trust fund division of the state treasurer's office.

Gus drove daily for 17 years the 40-mile round trip to the Capitol from his home, a total of more than 203,000 miles.

The 74-year-old will devote his time to a real estate and insurance business in Ceresco, he said.

Gus served under State Treasurers Carl G. Swanson, Edward Gillette, Frank B. Heintze, Ralph W. Hill, Bertha I. Hill and incumbent Richard Larsen.

Uranium

About five years ago "uranium fever" hit Nebraska, not as an illness, but as a yen to hunt for the valuable ore.

Dr. Eugene Reed, head of the Conservation and Survey Division of the University of Nebraska, said all the prospecting failed to turn up a commercial find.

Interest waned, Reed said, because of the low content of uranium discoveries in this state. He said some were made in the northeastern part of the state in black shale along the Missouri River.

Similar finds were reported in the southwestern corner of Nebraska in the Republican River Valley, also in black shale formations.

There were a few discoveries in southeastern Nebraska but in all cases, Reed said, quality was too low to merit development.

School Lunches

More Nebraska children are participating in school lunch programs.

That's the word from the State Department of Education.

Last year there was a six per cent hike in the number of schools having hot lunches while the total of children taking advantage of them climbed 12.5 per cent.

The department said 486 schools provided lunches last year for 70, 925 children. The schools got $740,281 in federal funds to help finance the projects.

Capitol News—Sec. of State Gears for May Election

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN—Secretary of State Frank Marsh is gearing his office for the hectic weeks before the March 11 deadline for candidates to file for the May election.

Activities are on a much wider range than recording the names of those seeking public office, which in itself is a big task.

Marsh says he has scheduled meeting with county clerks and with companies that supply election materials to be briefed on election laws and changes made by the last Legislature and will be given an opportunity to clear up any problems they have, Marsh said.

The meeting with suppliers is to standardize forms and voter instructions.

Marsh says all counties get their
