

A Poem

From Mrs. Eby . . .

—EASTER FINERY—
It's time to choose my outfit, the best I can afford,
For next Sunday I'm aspiring to greet the risen lord,
I will walk sedately, one of a happy throng,
And reverently I'll enter the church where I belong.
To the throbbing hallelujahs that the organ peals in praise,
My soul will be responding in the silent prayer I raise,
The flowers in the chancel, the candle's flickering flame,
And the athens swelling cadence, will glorify His name.
If I should be presented at the court of any king,
I'd want to be represented in the best of everything,
So since it is my privilege to worship at the feet,
Of the King of all the universe, I think it's only meet,
That I don my finest raiment and look my very best.
Because it is an honor to greet this holy Guest,
Some folks will term it foolish and others call it pride,
But it's just my way of showing what I feel way down inside.
It's just one way of saying "Oh! death, where is thy sting?"
It's just an outward symbol of the joy I feel within.
It's one way of paying homage to the Christ who died to save a host of weary pilgrims from the darkness of the grave.
(Faustine P. Greene)

Homemakers Corner . . .

I wish your daughters to resemble me in nothing but the love of reading, knowing, by experience, how far it is capable of softening the cruellest accidents of life; even the happiest cannot be passed over without many uneasy hours and there is no remedy so easy as books, which if they do not give cheerfulness, at least restore quiet to the most troubled mind.
Mary Mortly Montagu

These sunny days seem to perk everyone up, give one a desire to do a little cleaning or whatever needs to be done. Even the birds seem more cheerful during the early morning hours. It seems good to hear them as morning approaches and night comes upon us. Since the snow and water subsided the lawns are beginning to green up and come alive again. It will take quite a few warm drying days before one will be able to clean and rake their lawns.

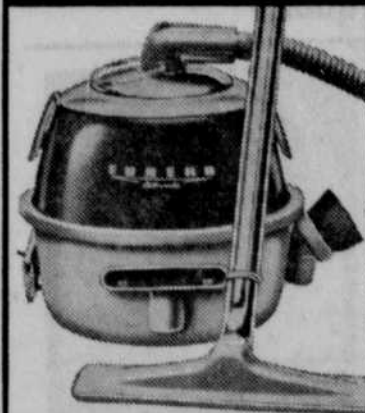

Safety note: "The look you forgot to take could be your last."
During the early spring months young green cabbage has proven to be a good buy for vitamin C., advises Jewel Graham, of Iowa State University. Cabbage will hold a large share of its vitamin C. content for as long as two months if stored a few degrees above freezing. For refrigerating cabbage it is best either to wrap it or place it in your crisper. For slicing cabbage use a sharp knife. When cooking cabbage do so in as short a time as possible and serve at once.

To add color to your Easter baskets make some of these Almond Carmel Drops and wrap them in varied colored foil. Even the candy you make the candy for yourself it should be wrapped individually to help keep crisp, full flavored and should the weather turn damp it will not become sticky.

ALMOND CARAMEL DROPS
1 quart unblanched almonds
1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar (packed)
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup light cream
6 tablespoons butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Place almonds in shallow pan and roast in slow oven (300 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes, until lightly browned, cool. Combine sugars, corn syrup, milk, cream, butter and salt in deep saucepan and cook, stirring occasionally, to firm ball stage (248 degrees F.). Remove from heat and stir in vanilla and almonds, stirring only enough to coat nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper to cool. Wrap each piece individually when cool. Makes about 3 dozen large pieces.
Your suggestions and comments are always welcomed. Write to Mrs. Sarah Michaels, Box 153, Inman, Nebraska.
