Alder Homes Evacuated After More Sliding

Two weeks ago The Frontier reported that the Tom Alder home located in northeast Holt county was being undermined by a landslide.

Saturday night the earth in front of the place dropped another 20 feet lowering a shed and several trees without upsetting them. Sunday the Alder's evacuated both their own home and his mother's Mrs. Grace Alder's home.

The first slide occurred April 20 and destroyed part of the sidewalk. Not much damage was done until Saturday night following the recent rains. At supper the Alder's heard the cracking of tree roots and when they looked the land was sinking away near the house.

A sidewalk near the house was threatened but the dirt dropped away just even with the walk.

The Tom Alder house constructed mostly of cement could not be moved but Mrs. Grace Alder's home was moved Tuesday away from the slide. Household things from both houses were moved Sunday.

The cause of the slide has not been determined but it is believed that an underground creek is responsible. In the past, water had run on the surface by the house but this year no water ran past.

Mrs. Grace Alder has lived in that community all of her 72 years. Her parents moved to the place 80 years ago. The younger Alders moved there 11 years ago following the death of Mr. Alder.

The Tom Alder's have been staying with the Albert Ellis' and Grace is staying in Emmet with Elmer Alders.

Abel Carries County; Cooper Wins Over State

Voters turned out Tuesday in what might prove to be a record number for a primary election to cast their ballots for the men and women of their choice.

An unofficial count of 2,750 votes were cast. Two years ago only 1,935 voters went to the polls and four years ago 1,726 voted.

Most winning candidates won by easy margins here in Holt county, but a close race for district judge developed in the fifteenth judicial district.

Norman Gonderinger, O'Neill, easily won in Holt county, but throughout the district his lead was cut to only 228 votes. Gonderinger collected 2,694 votes. William Smith, Ainsworth, will oppose Gonderinger in the major election to be held in November.

Smith got 1,866 votes throughout the district and the other candidate, William Brennan, Battle, collected some 1,700 votes. All three men ran on a non-political ticket and the two receiving the most votes are scheduled to stand election in November.

In Holt county Gonderinger received 2,641 votes and Smith 2,811 for Brennan and 540 for Smith. In the race for the state legislature in this 28th district, Frank Nelson again collected the most votes over Ora Yarges of Stuart. Both men can still run in the November election.

Nelson polled 2,901 votes in the district compared to 1,588 for Yarges. In Holt county Nelson received 1,784 of the votes while Yarges got 836 ballots.

Bob Tomlinson and Mike Landreth waged a close battle for 2nd district supervisor until voters from Landreth's home ground were heard. Then Landreth took a commanding 83-63 lead.

Louis Reimer, present county judge, received more votes than any other with 2,841. Reimer was unopposed. A number of write-in candidates for the judgeship were recorded including votes for Orville Thorson, William Milnes, John Gallagher, Ed Flood, Walt Stewart, William Gries, Cal Stewart, Bill Hibbs, Jim Read and Ewald Spahn.

On the state scene John Cooper of Humbolt won with a wide margin over other hopefuls in the race for republican nomination for governor. Frank Morrison won the same race on the democratic ticket and the two men will face each other in November.

Here in Holt county the story was different. Mrs. Hazel Abel handily beat Cooper by a 393 vote margin. Dwan Williams finished third and Terry Carpenter was fourth in Holt county.

For the republican nomination for congressman in this fourth district Dave Martin received 521 votes compared to Monroe Bixler's 418. Throughout the district Martin managed a slight lead, but all votes have not as yet been counted.

The large number of candidates on this ballot caused much concern with election officials and extra time was needed to count and tally all the votes.

Cal Stewart polled the most votes here in Holt county for alternate delegate at large. Stewart received 981 votes for the position. L. D. Putnam received 902 votes as a delegate to the national convention from the fourth district. The complete totals on the delegates at large were not available at press time.

In the presidential voting, Senator Jack Kennedy was the only name on the ballot. He received some 78,000 demo votes. On the republican ticket vice-president Nixon came close to Kennedy without bothering to register in the primary. He received some 70,000 write-in votes for the republican nomination as president of the United States.

Here in Holt county the voting looked like this.

REPUBLICAN PARTY—For president, Nixon, 600 write-in votes. Barry Goldwater received 16 write-ins and Rockefeller received 8. Fred Stanton had 1 vote; Ben Grady had 1 vote and President Eisenhower received 4 votes.
