Col. Don G. Pennterman, assistant state adjutant general, met in O'Neill Thursday night with interested parties representing the O'Neill Chamber of Commerce and O'Neill Guardsmen.

Purpose of the meeting was to decide whether the city should go ahead with the proposed plan to construct a $90,000 Armory in O'Neill or to wait for additional federal funds. The $90,000 is already available from state funds.

E. Watson Heads Inman Water Drainage Group

Inman Drainage Committee members met Friday night and elected Earl Watson as chairman of the committee formed to seek a remedy to the continuing flooding of that community.

Karl Keyes was named vice-chairman and Harvey Tompkins was elected secretary.

The Inman flooding problem was brought to a boil during the spring thawing period that saw that town inundated twice in as many weeks and the present drainage facilities proved inadequate to handle the run-off.

Clark and Vernon Davis of the Community Club; Earl Watson and Harvey Tompkins of the Commercial club; R. B. Geary, Tom Englehaupt and Karl Keyes representing the township board; and Harry McGraw, Leon R. Tompkins, Ira Watson and George Colman of the village board.

At Friday night's meeting a brief report on the funds available was first heard. Then the village board reported that the village is allowed by law to spend funds on projects that are constructed within three miles of the village.

After these reports were given the members of the village board opened the door for committee action by voting to pay one-half the costs of grading the mile road south of Inman extending from the Donald Keyes corner to the Kenneth Smith corner.

This was the only direct action taken at the meeting.

During the course of the business session the following possibilities to the flood problem were discussed.

The new mail route road one mile west of Inman and the need for numerous bridges in the natural water courses.

It was agreed that there should be a bridge going north at
