an old hand at pioneering!

Upon its organization 21 years ago this month, Consumers Public Power District pioneered a new kind of electric service for Nebraskans—an integrated, state-wide system owned by the customers it serves.

The benefits have been many. An always-dependable supply of power has been provided. The cost of electricity to the customer has gone down. In fact, electric rates in Nebraska are among the lowest in the nation. All income that would ordinarily be considered "profit" has been turned back into the constant improvement of your electric service.

Today, Consumers is still pioneering in many ways, chief among which is the construction of the nuclear power facility at Sheldon Station. By participating in the nation's power reactor development program, Consumers is helping to open the way to a new era of social and economic progress.
