Portrait of an American who isn't served by Trucks

You don't see anyone on this canvas because actually there isn't anyone in this broad land of Nebraska who isn't served by trucks.

Trucks keep the shopping center stocked with merchandise of all kinds... take the farmer's livestock, milk and crops to market... feed raw materials and parts to the manufacturing plant and move out finished products... provide goods and services for everybody's business.

Yes, the housewife, the farmer, the manufacturer, the businessman—YOU—everybody in Nebraska needs and benefits from the services of the motor truck.

COMMUNISM AND PRESERVE. What you can do to fight communism. Let yourself learn the true nature and tactics of communism. Make civic programs for social improvement your business. Secure your right to vote about representatives of integrity. Respect human dignity—communism and individual rights cannot coexist. Storm yourself; know your country—its history, traditions, and heritage. Combat public apathy toward communism—indifference can be fatal when national survival is at stake. Stack bigotry and prejudice wherever they appear; justice for all is the bulwark of democracy. J. Edgar Hoover

Forty Eight Pounds to Every Barrel. From the first barrel brewed back in 1876 to the hundreds of thousands of barrels brewed today, Storz depends on Nebraska farmers for quality grain necessary to fine brewing. 17 million pounds of Midwestern barley and corn go into the brewing of Storz—that's 48.7 pounds for every barrel. Although Storz is sold in seven states, it's a Nebraska product, thanks to your loyalty and patronage. Storz Brewing Company Omaha, Nebraska, U.S.A.
