A Poem From Mrs. Eby . . .

—Only Believe—

An old woman with a halo of hair so white, and tears flowing down furrowed cheeks in sight, Her worn hands busy over a washbasin and suds, in a room of poverty praying as she scrubbed the suds,

Praying for son, John, who ran away to be a sailor that day in May,

It was now reported he was a very wicked man. But she went on praying as only a mother can.

She believed two things, the power of prayer, and that her son would return believing as she did there,

While she scrubbed God saw her doing her part, and He worked a miracle in John Newton's heart.

John Newton drunken sailor became John Newton sailor preacher and no one could feature,

What made the change without effort or deave but God heard the prayer of one who'd believe.

The saint with her washboard and suds that foam, brought back her boy no longer to roam,

Took God at His word and prayed that day that John's heart would be changed in a wonderful way,

And she saw him become a great soul winner there, just because she persisted in believing prayer. Mark 5:36. Fear not only believe.
