

A Poem From Mrs. Eby . . .

"If"
If you were busy being kind, before you knew it you would find, you'd soon forget to think 'twas true that someone was unkind to you.
If you were busy being glad and cheering people who were sad, altho your heart might ache a bit, you'd soon forget to notice it.
If you were busy being good and doing just the best you could, you'd not have time to blame some man who's doing just the best he can.
If you were busy being true to what you know you ought to do, you'd be so busy you'd forget the blunders of the folks you've met.
If you were busy being right, you'd find yourself too busy quite, to criticize your neighbor long, because he's busy being wrong.
If you put a little loving into all the work you do, and a little bit of gladness and a little bit of you, and a little bit of sweetness and a little bit of song, not a day will seem too tedious; not a day will seem too long.
And your work will be attractive, and the world will stop to look, and the world will see a sweetness, like the tinkling of a brook.
Show the finished job; and then the world will turn to look at you, with a world's appreciation of the things you've found to do.
