The bride appeared in a gown fashioned of satin faced peau de soie and imported rose point lace. The slim bodice was designed with a portrait scoop neckline framed in lace appliques encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent. The sleeves were long and tapered. A fitted midriff encircled with the same lace gave an empire effect above deep bow pleats extending into a belted floor length skirt which swept to the back into a full chapel train. Her bouffant bustle length veil of silk English illusion was caught to a demi-crown of lace edged in seed pearls and accented by aurora borealis crystals. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Gordon Fox, Lincoln. Bridesmaids were Miss Lynda Haynes and Mrs. Wayne Hoffman. The bride's attendants were moss green street length dresses fashioned with a velvet bodice and double silk organza overskirts. Their bouquets were ivory mums with moss green velvet ribbon streamers.

The best man was Ronald M. Siedel, Lincoln. Groomsmen were Dale Wood and Wayne Hoffman. Escorting the guests to their seats were Bernard Grimes and Dale Doolittle.

Randy Butterfield and LeEllen Haynes were candlelighters. Todd Miller was ring bearer and Candice Marcellus was flower girl.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors. Mrs. John L. Farrier served as hostess. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Cecil Bishop and Mrs. Judy Strong. Presiding at the coffee service were Mrs. Pearl Jennings, Lincoln, and Mrs. Dale Butterfield, sister of the bridegroom.

The Misses Sharon Marcellus, Laurel Haynes and Lonna Haynes served the bride's table. In charge of the gifts were Miss Helen Sobotka, Mrs. Thomas Langan, Miss Marilyn Lampman and Mrs. Dale Wood.

The bride is a graduate of O'Neill high school and Lincoln School of Commerce. She has been recently employed by the Consumers Public Power District of O'Neill.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Chambers high school and attended Wesleyan university at Lincoln.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will be at home on a ranch west of Amelia.

Big Business

The man who is in charge of tourist promotion in Nebraska—State Game Commission Director Mel Steen—thinks that within 10 years tourism can become one of the largest businesses in the state.

He told the Legislative Council study committee on tourism that with a proper promotion and development program Nebraska can realize $500 million annually from tourists. He says the state is moving too slow now and that his estimate is ultra-conservative since the U. S. Park service believes the state has the potential to be $800 million annually.

Steen says agriculture should be vitally interested in tourist promotion since it has a great indirect benefit for them. He says tourists spend 32 per cent of their money—the largest single amount—for foodstuffs. Gasoline and lodging take up from 20 to 24 per cent each and the rest is spent for other items such as fees and knicknacks.

Valuable Plaque

Diamonds soon will glitter in the State Capitol, Building Supt. R. C. Newell is having a diamond studded plaque repaired and will have it displayed in the Statehouse when a suitable location is found. The plaque—with 75 perfect diamonds in it—was presented to the state on its 75th birthday by the Jewelers Guild of Omaha.

Regular Meetings

Regular weekly meetings have begun for the State Standards and Specifications Committee at the order of Gov. Frank Morrison. The committee—a policy making group for the administration of state purchasing laws—met only sporadically in the past.

Morrison says that now anyone with suggestions for improving purchasing procedures and specifications can present them each week to the committee. Membership of the committee is Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson, Purchasing Agent George Morris and State Engineer John Hosack. Controversy over state purchasing has been in the news the past few months.

Committee Meetings

Several Legislative Council study committees either met or had meetings scheduled this month. Still to be held are meetings of the committee on the aircraft gasoline tax on Nov. 16 and the committee on the gasoline tax on Nov. 17.

Committees which already have held meetings this month include the tourism committee, the committee on educational problems in the Omaha area, the public power committee, the school lands committee, the road district land committee and the committee on state purchasing.

Interstate

The Interstate highway between Omaha and Lincoln is providing a boom for some tow-in operators. The high speed limit of 75 mph is a contributing factor since many cars have not been driven for distances at that speed before and break down, especially the older models.

Another factor is that stalled autos must be removed from the highway within 2 hours after the breakdown. Much of the time state troopers patrolling the highway is spent in assisting stalled motorists.

Highway Safety Effort Continues;
Youths to Hold Statewide Meeting

LINCOLN — Gov. Frank Morrison is reaching out to the teenage bracket in his continuing effort to promote highway safety. Youth from all over the state are expected Saturday (Nov. 11) for a statewide youth safety conference in Lincoln. The conference will be held in the modern Center for Continuing Education on the University of Nebraska Agriculture campus.

Alarmed at the mounting traffic death toll in Nebraska, Gov. Morrison explained, "I'm trying to use every tool available to make the people safety-conscious."

Already the governor has set weekend safe driving programs, held safety conferences out state, named a safety council and foundation and now is aiming at the younger set.

Addressing the teen-agers at the conference will be Dr. A. L. Chapman who is the assistant surgeon general and chief of the Division of Accident Prevention of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Gov. Morrison, who once was severely injured in an automobile accident several years ago in which a friend died, is personally interested in traffic safety. The fact that Nebraska has the second best fatality record of the north central states is of no consolation to him. "I'm only thinking of the hundreds of homes in the state of Nebraska that have suffered the loss of a loved one," the governor said.

blems of education in the Omaha area learned that 3 counties in that area handle one-third of the students in the state.

Commissioner of Education Freeman Decker said Douglas, Sarpy and Cass counties have some 110,000 of the 340,000 students from kindergarten through 12th grade in the state.

Meet Your Correspondent

(Another story in the series of "Meet Your Correspondents")

Our article this week concerns Mrs. Ralph Brookhouser who writes about the people in the Venus area.

She has been a correspondent for The Frontier for seven years, first starting when Cal Stewart was publisher of the paper.

Mrs. Brookhouser is a native of Sparta, northeast of Verdigre. She attended school in District 51 until 1920 when the family moved to Verdigre and she entered public school where she graduated in 1926.

Thirty-five years ago she was married to Ralph Brookhouser and the couple lived in the Walnut, Middle Branch and Venus communities since their marriage. They have resided in their present home 11½ miles northwest of Orchard since 1943.

Their family consists of four daughters and two sons, Mrs. James A. Border, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Emil Bartos, Verdigre; Mrs. Marlin T. Tusha, Woodbridge, Va.; Mrs. Richard EnEarl, Tacoma, Wash.; Larry L. Grand Island, and Ray, Orchard. There are seven granddaughters and six grandsons.

Mrs. Brookhouser believes her family is the largest ever to graduate from the same school as the parents. The six children graduated from Verdigre high and so did Mr. and Mrs. Brookhouser. Five of the children were in school when J. J. Van Hoff was school superintendent. He was also superintendent when Mrs. Brookhouser was graduated.

The Venus correspondent is a busy person. Besides the regular run of duties on the farm and in the home, she manages to find time to take part in outside activities. She has been a member of the Help U club since 1938, and is a charter member of the Work and Fun club. She has been a member of the School Board the past 15 years, and is chairman of her precinct election board; helped out on Red Cross and USO drives and has served on the government census board.

Her main hobby, however, is raising turkeys which she has sold in great numbers all over the state and several out of the state. Turkeys have been raised at the Brookhouser farm for the past 18 years. The poults used to be hatched at the farm but are now ordered about April 1 so she can have a good matured flock by Thanksgiving time.

Visitors admire the fine horses at the Brookhouser farm as well as the cattle. The Brookhousers have crossed some of the Hereford cattle with Angus.

Among Mrs. Brookhouser's talents is her ability to turn out some extra good dinners and many of her friends can vouch for the tastiness of her kolaches.

Rose Brookhouser is a good natured, friendly woman who enjoys life to the utmost. The Frontier personnel has long enjoyed her relationship with the paper.
