A Poem From Mrs. Eby . . .

—The New Year— Today we stand at the vast unknown, whether our way we'll have or one we've overthrown, But let's go forth and possessa without fear, though changes may come and war may seem near. For here's a cheering, comforting thought, Our Lord takes care of the ones He has brought.

From Him come springs that will never run dry. Here are founts and live springs that our God will supply. The land sometimes valleys and sometimes hills, sometimes just mere trickles, then overflow spills.

If all were dead level the dullness would oppress. The hills contact rain for fruitfulness bless, and though the way is difficult, He knows and shows His hills are protection from our worst of foes, though sometimes hard to climb 'twill be a good new year. So let's do away with forboding and fear.

For He leads us on by paths we did not know, upward He leads us though our steps be slow, though we may falter and faint on the way, though darkness and storms obscure the day. Yet when the clouds are all gone we know He's leading us on. He still leads us on through unrequited years, through all our dreamed of hopes and fears.

He still guides us on through all the tangled maze of loss, sorrow and of overclouded days; we know He still leads to a bright and Happy New Year and may faith reach beyond our old doubts and fear.
