By Mrs. E. E. Carpenter

Your Chambers reporter regrets not being able to get news into the office for last week's Frontier. Drifts 10 and 12 feet high, some perhaps bigger, piled into the roads. Some of these drifts were so hard snow plugs had difficulty getting through. A few roads were opened Wednesday for emergency cases, shortage of fuel and feed, tractor repairs and in one instance a death. Many other side roads were opened Thursday with the work continuing the rest of the week.

Forty-five women from the Amelia Methodist, the Bethany Presbyterian and Chambers Methodist churches met March 9 at the church in Chambers for the World Day of Prayer service.

Those from away attending the funeral of Mrs. Floyd Whitaker were Mr. and Mrs. Neven Ickes sr., Mr. and Mrs. Neven Ickes jr., Mr. and Mrs. Soren Sorensen jr., Page; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Miner, O'Neill; Mrs. Hattie Richardson, Raymond Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Goff, Ord; Mrs. Elva Goff, Loup City and Mrs. Herbert Rice and Mrs. Don Waller, North Loup. Accompanying her grandparents, Mr. and E. L. Miner, was Taneau Kiasna, Lincoln.

with streets of modern concrete

The officials in these listed cities have realized the benefits of concrete pavement. Many have a continuing program of street improvements.

Nothing else sets off a pleasant new neighborhood like attractive concrete streets. They start out good looking and stay that way. No softening in summer heat, no patching needed every spring. No surface treatments required that leave tar to stick on wheels and shoes.

And concrete is laid flat to stay flat and smooth-riding. It never gets potted and rippled. There is always good drainage. All this—plus exceptional safety, too. Concrete's grainy surface offers dependable skid resistance, wet or dry... makes it easier to keep cars under control.

Light colored concrete reflects more light, gives much higher visibility at night than any dark surface. And fewer light fixtures are needed to give the whole area a well-lighted look. When you consider improvements on your street, ask your city officials to pave with safe, durable concrete.
