County races in Tuesday's primary brought greater-than-usual number of voters to the polls. In the three-way race for Republican nomination for Sheriff Chris McGinn handily defeated both his opponents as he polled 1,137 votes while Earl C. Billings received 188 and Lloyd Thurlow tallied 428. McGinn will oppose Incumbent Leo Tomjack in the general election this fall. Tomjack, a Democrat with no opposition in the primary, received 647 votes. McGinn's total fell just 136 votes short of equalling all other candidates for the office, as he carried all but five of the 44 precincts. The county will have a new assessor after the fall election. Charles Fox, Inman bayman, received 1,391 votes to unseat incumbent William Wafso. Wafso had 617 votes. Kieth Abart's attempt to defeat Howard Manson for the office of clerk of district court fell 226 votes short as Manson tallied 1,093 to Abart's 867. The county treasurer's race also provided interesting competition as Incumbent J. Ed Hancock received 1,091 votes to state off Arthur W. Kopp who had 894. Arlo Hiatt nosed out Ralph H. Walker for the Republican nomination for supervisor, first district, 214-170. Hiatt will oppose incumbent Ed Flood in the fall. Clarence Ernst, running for re-nomination on the Republican ticket will oppose Democrat Ray Bosh this fall. Ernst received 251 votes while Bosh had 110. Each was unopposed in the primary. Fifth district supervisor contest in the general election will see Democrat Lawrence Pribil opposing Harlan A. Dierking, Republican incumbent. In state offices on the Republican ticket Fred Seaton ran far ahead of his competition as he polled 1,481 votes in the county compared to George A. Clarke, 257, and Louis H. Hector, 81. Dwight Burney, incumbent lieutenant governor outsped Lester H. Anderson 1,323 to 475. Frank Marsh, unopposed for nomination for secretary of state, received 1,686 votes, while Ray C. Johnson received 1,528 votes for state auditor in a solo race. Clarence Meyer, running for re-nomination as state attorney general, received 1,453 votes. He was unopposed. In a four-way race for nomination for railway commissioner, Wayne R. Swanson led easily as he received 863 votes. Raymond

L. Lemke had 206 votes, E. E. Coover 160 votes and Waldo Iverson, 232.

Dave Martin had no trouble in Holt county getting support for the post of third district representative to Congress. He garnered 1,332 votes while Bill Richards had 184, John A. Campbell, 117, and Don Glantz 89.

Republican candidates for two county offices had no opposition within the party. Ken Waring, county clerk, received 1,753, William Griffin, county attorney had 1,634.

Griffin will be opposed this fall by J. R. Gallagher, Democratic candidate, who received 613 votes.

Eli McConnell will have no competition for seventh district supervisor in the general election. McConnell, unopposed on the Republican ticket, received 280 votes.

Ted McElhane, Joe G. Brewster and Robert Brayton were automatic winners for delegates to the county post-primary convention.

No local competition was evident in the Democratic races. On the state level Governor Frank B. Morrison tallied 567 votes in the county while Mrs. Ralph G. Brooks had 112 and Tony Mangiamelli received 53 votes for nomination for governor.

For lieutenant governor, Rudolph Anderson edged Robert Dixon in county voting, 344 to 279. George Meister received 228 votes for secretary of state while his opponent Leonard Foster had 52.

Charles Broderick, unopposed for nomination as state auditor, had 401 votes. Richard Larsen, unopposed for state treasurer, had 537.

David Thomas, running a similar race for attorney general, polled 498. Four Democrats sought the post of railway commissioner. Fred Sorenson received 274 votes, Walter H. Jensen 127, Francis Hanson 92 and Russell Meacham 81.

John A. Hoffman picked up 373 Holt county votes for Democratic nomination for third district representative while Jack Brogan received 214.

On the non-political ballot Frank Nelson easily staved off a write-in campaign for John Copeland. Nelson received 2,305 votes while Copeland had 40.

In county voting for chief justice of the state supreme court Clarence S. Beck had 977, Paul White 730 and Herbert A. Ronin 451.

For university regent, Holt county gave 921 votes to Jack G. Elliott, 568 for Max Brown and 196 for Roy Blixt.

Frank Cronk, unopposed for county judge, received 2,310 and Alice French, unopposed for county superintendent, had 2,168. C. H. Rouse received 129 votes for director of Elkhorn Rural public power district, subdivision three.

Fritz Rokahr had 25 votes for director North Central public power district, subdivision four. Only Iowa precinct could vote for Rokahr and Golden for Rouse.
