A long list of items awaited O'Neill's city council Tuesday night as they considered bills, sewer and water problems, street cleaning, parking, building permits, sanitation, drainage and codification of municipal ordinances.

Leo Moore appeared to ask for water in the new Cleveland and Kipple addition to service three houses he has sold for construction this summer. The council plans to have water in the area by fall, they said, at about the time it will be needed.

Herman Janzing asked for permission to place two portable signs on the sidewalk in front of the coin-operated laundry he plans to install in the Brown building, former site of Ideal Cleaners. Permission was granted.

F. N. Cronin discussed the new O'Neill National bank building planned for construction this summer at the corner of Fifth and Douglas, requesting permission to cross the sidewalk with two drives for the drive-in banking window.

Three retail merchants requested the council to investigate ways of keeping the south side of Douglas cleaner during the dry summer months. Trash accumulates on the south side of the street, they said, both in gutters and on sidewalks.

Sidewalk cleaning problems were discussed and a tentative solution of hiring a man to sweep the streets and sidewalks in the area during the summer months was brought up.

The question of outdoor privies was reached up by Mrs. Anna Brown. The city clerk was instructed to write letters to all owners of such facilities and order the privies removed within 30 days.

Harden Anspach asked the council to install a culvert at the alley entrance between Adams and Benton, saying cars dragged going across the place. He presented a petition signed by property owners in the area.

Codification of the municipal ordinances was suggested by Jason Smith, a member of an Idaho firm specializing in such work. The council took the matter under study.

A building permit was granted to Joe Musil to build a three room house.

K. L. VAN VOORHIS was elected president of the O'Neill Chamber of Commerce Monday night. He will replace outgoing president Ken Curren. Other officers elected were Gil Poese, first vice president, Wayne Spelts, second vice president, and Ken Curren and Virgil Laurson, directors.

McKenzie. During this session the Juniors of Bassett entertained the group with the "Story of the Junior Program". Lettie Jean Coulthard, Department President of the American Legion Auxiliary of Elgin gave the principal address.

Officers elected for the following year include: Jean Ann Moss, Minatare, Department Junior President; Sue Hallock, Springview, Vice President, and Debby Hering, McCook, Historian. Installation of officers was conducted by Miss Coulthard. The 1963 Conference will be held in Minatare.

O'Neill Juniors were awarded the Department cash award for having the largest enrollment of "Tiny Tots" (these are girls from birth to 8 years of age) having 28 on the Unit rolls. They were also awarded the Verna Bosley Gavel Bell for the Best Junior Activities report in Group II (Units having more than 25 Juniors); and Miss Jean McKenzie of the O'Neill Unit won first place on her Pan American Doll in Class Two. This doll will now go on to the National competition to be judged at the National Convention to be held in Las Vegas in October.
