

Get Up A Party! Plan to Attend Cooking School

Only two weeks remaining before Mary Fenton will be cooking up a storm at the Best of All Days cooking school, sponsored by The Frontier, to be held on October 25 at the Legion Hall, in O'Neill with the doors opening at 1 p.m.

The cooking school itself is free. Homemakers will be given a free Best of All Days cookbook, eligible to win one of the many free bags of groceries to be given away, and be in line to win some of the freshly made food products which Miss Fenton will prepare.

Everything baked and made on the stage during the cooking school is given away at the school.

The recipes demonstrated during the Best of All Days cooking school will not be of the hard-to-make, impractical type. One basic aim of the Best of All Days school is to pass on to the homemakers attending, simple, yet clever and tasty ways of preparing new dishes, and perhaps even easier ways of preparing the old favorites.

Best of All Days in O'Neill will be the biggest, one-day event designed especially for the homemaker to be held in this part of the state. Last year in its first tour of the midwest, the Best of All Days cooking schools, which incidentally are always newspaper sponsored, attracted over 75,000 homemakers.

National participants in the Best of All Days program are Brer Rabbit Molasses, Pillsbury Flour, Alcoa Wrap, Van Camp's Pork and Beans, Nestle Morsels and Red Star Yeast.

It isn't often that an event is aimed directly towards the women. With that in mind, area homemakers are urged to call their neighbors and get up a party going to the Best of All Days cooking school in O'Neill, October 25.

New Officers Installed At Achievement Day

Discipline — the art of helping children to become socially acceptable was the topic for the talk given by Dr. Beverly Fowler at the Annual Home Extension Achievement Day in O'Neill, Oct. 4.

Dr. Fowler pointed out that children get their clues for behavior from those about them. Youngsters know from the look on your face, the tone of your voice, the way you place his place on the table whether you are pleased or annoyed with him. They react accordingly, not always in an acceptable manner. By and large discipline problems generally arise from the fact that the youngster wants and needs more attention than he is getting. This often stems from parents being too busy, too tired, too preoccupied with all the details that come with every day. When children are especially annoying, it's time to stop, look and listen to discover what's wrong and how to help. Reasons for behavior are endless and parents are better able to figure them out than anyone else.

More than one hundred fifty guests attended the day's activities which opened with a covered dish lunch at noon. Group singing, reports, musical numbers by Kenneth, Curt and Carol Peacock accompanied by Dianne Gillespie and installation of 1963 officers completed the program.

Officers installed for 1963 include: Mrs. Leo Kramer, county chairman; Mrs. Louis Siebert, vice county chairman; Mrs. Marvel Jean Baehorst, secretary treasurer; Mrs. Owen Parkinson, publicity chairman; Mrs. Jack McGrew, health chairman; Mrs. Russel Barellman, music chairman; Mrs. Harold Coburn, 4-H chairman; Mrs. G. The O'Neill High Eagles enjoyed a week-end of rest before they take on Ainsworth this Friday for the 4th annual Homecoming game at the O'Neill Athletic Field. The festivities of the day will begin with a parade downtown at 2:00. Included in the parade will be the O'Neill marching band, the Homecoming queen candidates, and the floats sponsored by the individual classes and school organizations. The O'Neill-Ainsworth contest will begin at 7:30 with the announcing of the royalty and the crowning of the king and queen to be held at half-time. The O'Neill High students will wind up their celebrating with a Homecoming Dance following the game.

Although the Eagles were inactive, the slate of Friday night games contained a great deal of OHS chances of repeating as East Rangeland Conference Champs. The big game of the week as far as the Eagles were concerned was the Ainsworth-Bassett struggle played at Ainsworth. A group of OHS football players were on hand to watch Ainsworth open the scoring midway through the first quarter when 170-pound senior fullback, Larry Zeeb, cracked through the Bassett line and galloped 65 yards. The quarterback sneak attempt for the extra point was good, and the Homecoming celebrating Bulldogs held onto a 7-0 lead throughout the opening stanza.

With time running out and a hard rain falling, the visiting Tigers made an all-out attempt to open their scoring before the half ended. With less than a minute remaining in the second quarter fullback Ernie Bussinger bolted over from 12 yards out. Jim Conknie dove for the extra point and the scoring ended in a 7-7 deadlock.

The second half was played in a driving rain that hampered offensive drives for both squads. Bassett was unable to take advantage of two scoring opportunities in the closing minutes and the game ended with the score tied.

The Bulldog-Tiger draw gives Bassett a Rangeland record of one victory and one tie. Ainsworth will carry a record of two ties in Rangeland competition into the Friday night classic, while O'Neill will try to improve their conference record of one win and a loss.

	won	lost	tie
Bassett	1	0	1
O'Neill	1	1	0
Ainsworth	0	0	2
Valentine	0	1	1

If the outcome on Friday would result in an OHS victory, and if the greatly improved Badgers of Valentine could manage a win at Bassett, the Eagles would repeat as conference champions. The standings:
