A Poem From Mrs. Eby . . .

—The Guiding Star—

That brilliant star the wise men had led, not to a palace, but to a lowly place where cattle were fed. Oh they could have felt doubt creeping in, when they found Him there in that lowly bin.

But they trusted God to lead them right, though intelligence might have paused at this sight, To allow God's son to be born in that place, The rich would have felt, twas a burning disgrace.

No soft bassinet, where God's son was laid, no dainty pillow for Him had been made. No lovely layette but swaddling clothes, that covered His body clear down to His toes.

And His lovely mother doing her part, could't quite understand, but trusted her heart. As costly gifts for her son were made, gold, frankincense and myrrh, the wisemen laid.

But, Oh! the joy in Mary's heart, outweighed all the gifts as she saw them depart, As the glory shone round Him, "God's little boy", and hers too. No wonder her heart was bursting with joy. We still hear the joy bells ringing today, for the little Lord Jesus asleep in the hay.
