A Poem

From Mrs. Eby... -Be True to Yourself- No servant can serve two masters. Be a true Christian, don't sit on the fence, Make a decision and sit there, But keep yourself in suspense. There's always two sides to a question we know. The right way and wrong way wherever we go.

The dear Lord will help us the right way to find, And we'll read plain and clear when the wrong we've declined. In the Civil war, a man didn't want to take sides, So he donned a blue coat and gray trousers, to deceive he tried. But they shot at him from both sides since he tried not to show. Which way he believed and that way to go.

We can't serve God and mammon, the Good Book declares, Though we try to be neutral, just one way it fares. Maybe when with ungodly people we don't always confess, That we believe in Jesus and go the way we profess. So let's get off the fence and stand for this year, And stand for the right without doubt or fear.

Della Stuart Eby
