Spring Is At Its Best

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE, Homemaking Editor

That ethereal time of year is at hand when spring is at its best. Spring flowers springing up on the meadows, warmer weather, the housecleaning done, we hope. Everything is "hunky dory," or, if not quite that good, at least the blood is coursing through our veins with more zest! In May most folks want to set the world on fire.

Right now some rain certainly would help.

Something a bit different in the dessert line that you might like to try is—

APRICOT SNOW
One package lemon flavored gelatine, one cup warm water, one cup apricot juice, one cup apricot pulp, four tablespoons powdered sugar, two egg whites (unbeaten).

Dissolve gelatine in warm water, add apricot juice. Chill. Combine apricot pulp and sugar. When gelatine is cold and syrupy, place in a bowl of cracked ice or ice water, add egg whites and whip with rotary egg beater until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Fold in apricot pulp. When slightly thickened, turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp greens. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves six.

The poet who said March is mother nature's temperamental child was so right.

It has been a long winter here in prairie land and some of our snow banks were present with us for weeks after spring started. Spring brings us a lift from our slow winter spirits. We start hearing the meadowlarks and seeing the robins and the air gives promise of new life. On most ranches the wobbly-legged baby calves are starting to arrive, baby pigs and fluffy chickens are either present or very soon to
