Canning Season Suggestions

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE, Homemaking Editor

Time has rolled around again for canning and since we have no letters for use today, I'm going to devote the whole Frontier Woman to giving you some recipes you may want to try this season.

If you like things made with olive oil you'll probably like these pickles.

OLIVE OIL PICKLES
Slice one gallon medium and large cucumbers rather thick. Stir in one cup coarse salt and let stand overnight. Drain and wash off the salt. Place in a kettle, add one quart sliced onions and one cup each of vinegar, water and sugar, one tablespoon each mustard seed and celery seed, and 1/2 cup olive oil. Let boil two minutes. Put in sterilized jars and seal tightly. Makes seven pints. Ready to use as soon as cool.

BEST EVER CUCUMBER PICKLES
Four quarts cucumbers (sliced or chunked), three cups water, five cups vinegar, five cups sugar, one tablespoon salt, one teaspoon black pepper, 1/2 teaspoon turmeric (optional), one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon cinnamon, one onion (medium size, cut fine).

Mix vinegar, sugar, water, salt and spices (tied in a bag) and bring to boiling point. While the vinegar solution is coming to a boil, wash, slice or chunk the cucumbers and cut the onion finely. Any size cucumbers may be used. Then put the cucumbers and onion in and bring to a boil and boil five minutes. Seal while hot in sterilized jars. Pickles will be ready for use in about a month.

LARGE CUCUMBER PICKLES
Peel and slice thinly large cucumbers. Sprinkle layers of cucumbers with salt and let stand for a day. Drain and rinse. Heat slightly diluted vinegar to boiling point. Drain cucumbers in. Do not boil, just heat through thoroughly. Seal while hot.

In the winter, drain off most of the vinegar and add cream, salt, pepper and onions for a dressing.

VEGETABLE SOUP MIX
One peck tomatoes, two large heads cabbage, one large bunch celery, 12 large onions, three to six green peppers, two quarts green beans, 16 large carrots, one cup rice or barley, eight tablespoons salt, one teaspoon pepper, four quarts water.

Chop ingredients as for soup. Mix all ingredients. Heat to boiling and pour into jars. Process for one hour at 15 pounds pressure or three hours in a hot water bath. Makes 40 pints.

TOMATO CHUTNEY
Four pint ripe tomatoes, one pint pared, chopped apples, three onions (finely chopped), two cups strong vinegar, two tablespoons salt, two cups brown sugar, one cup seeded raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon mustard, 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper.

Chop the vegetables and then the apples. Combine all ingredients and cook until the chutney is thick and clear. Pour hot into hot, sterilized glass jars. Seal tightly, at once.

WATERMELON RIND PRESERVES
One pint melon rind, two cups sugar, 1/2 lemon (sliced thinly), four cups water, two tablespoons preserved ginger (sliced thinly). Remove the green and all pink part. Cut the rind into one-inch squares. Cover with salted water (one tablespoon salt to one quart water) and let stand overnight. The following morning, drain, rinse the rind with cold water, cover with boiling water and cook rapidly for 15 minutes. Drain, boil sugar and water five minutes. Add the rind, sliced lemon and preserved ginger. Cook rapidly until the melon is tender and transparent. Pour into hot, sterilized jars and seal tightly, at once.

CHERRY RELISH
Two cups pitted cherries, one cup seedless raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 cup honey, 1/2 cup vinegar, 1/4 cup pecan nutmeats.

Mix all the ingredients together except the pecans and cook slowly one hour. Then add the pecan nutmeats and cook three minutes longer. Pour into sterilized jars and seal at once.
