

Top Baby Beef Brings 31c Pound

Tony Wewel Winner in Judging

STUART—One hundred forty-one head of livestock were on exhibition at the annual 4-H club tri-county stock show and sale held here Saturday, August 25. The entries included 67 dairy calves, 42 stocker-feeder calves, 20 breeding heifers, 16 baby heaves and six lambs.

Tony Wewel of Newport received the permanent trophy as top judge in the beef cattle judging with Robert ("Bob") Bealbert of Page, second; Gene Cosgrove of Bassett, third, and Jerome Cosgrove of Bassett and Teresa Wewel of Newport, tied for fourth. This group will receive an expense-free trip to a central market.

The showmanship trophy went to Brenda Bealaert of Page with Sharon Miner of O'Neill a close second.

The trophy for best club group of three baby beefs went to the Diamond Valley club of Newport with no competition.

The trophy for best club group of three stocker-feeder calves also went to the Diamond Valley club. These three trophies must be won three consecutive times for permanent possession.

Mary Clair Gilg of Atkinson won first place in the dairy judging contest with Margie Gilg of Atkinson, second; Janice Crumly of Page, third, and Annette Givens of Stuart, fourth.

Only three baby beefs were offered for sale at the auction with the highest price paid by Duaine Lockman of Stuart for a steer at 31 cents per pound. The Cleary brothers of Atkinson purchased a steer at 30 cents, and Wayne Galen of Atkinson paid 27 cents per pound for a heifer.

Some of the other baby beefs will be shown at the state fair.

All animals were judged and given blue, red and white placings.
