to Denver, Colo., where they will visit the Carl Christon, Jim Conway and Scott Clow homes. Elaine will visit the Howard Temple home in Hastings before returning home.

Stolp Leaves Holt; Grazing Extended

Kenneth G. Stolp, who has been office manager for the Holt county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee for the past few months, will return to Knox county.

He replaced William ("Bill") Miller here.

Meanwhile, the Holt ASC office has been advised the county has been given an extension of grazing time in the acreage reserve program. The extension will carry the grazing through December 31.

This means all farmers will not have to destroy their corn by August 31, providing they continue to pasture the soil bank acreage.

McKamys at Cow Palace

Mr. and Mrs. Don McKamy and two children returned late Saturday from a three-week, 5,500-mile vacation which took them to Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, California, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming.

In the span of one day they were below at 13,000 feet altitude and cool sea level in Death Valley where the mercury was over 114 degrees.

The McKamys visited the Cow Palace in San Francisco as the republican convention was getting underway.

Mr. McKamy said the trip was blighted in Billings, Mont., when the hub caps were stolen from his 1956 model car while the family was eating. Earlier, at O'Neill the caps had been stolen.
