Winter Bouquets Are Studied—
 The Pleasant Day club met Wednesday, October 17, at the home of Mrs. William Claussen for the first all-day session. The meeting began with a noon-day luncheon. All members were present except two, also five school children, due to a half-holiday, while their teacher was at a meeting elsewhere.
 Following dinner and business session, a table was set up outside where the members, and young fry, too, participated in painting and arranging material for winter bouquets. The finished result was presented to the hostess.
 A halloween party was planned to be held at the Albert Wittfeldt home Tuesday evening October 30.
 The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Curran in O'Neill on November 11.

60 Served at Party—
 PAGE—The Page post of the American Legion was host at a stag party, an annual event open to the public, Friday evening at the Legion hall. Guests were included from O'Neill, Ewing and Orchard. The evening was spent at cards. Lunch was served to about 60 guests.

Heavy Dough in Ton-Tax Fight

LINCOLN—About this time of year in the pre-election season, the matter of political spending comes in for scrutiny.
 There are state laws requiring political parties and trustees of political committees to submit reports on contributions received. They must report all contributions over $25 not later than 15 days before the general election. This includes for initiative petitions.
 Some government theorists say the intent of that particular law, and similar ones that come into play after an election, is to show how much money was received and spent for a candidate or an issue.
 But, in practice, the laws don't work that way.
 Take, as an example, the question of the amount of money received by supporters and opponents of the one-mile tax for heavy trucks and buses.
 The measure is to be voted on November 6.
 Reports were filed by the treasurers of each side of the controversy. Nate Holman, treasurer of the Nebraska producers and consumers committee—ton-mile opponents—listed he has $3,780 on hand at the start of the campaign.
 Holman said all of that money was in contributions of less than $25.
 C. E. Beals, treasurer of the committee for better roads through fair taxation—ton-mile supporters—said his group got $11,016, from contributors giving $25 or more.
 However, the reports cannot be compared on their face value.
 Both sides agree more than $100,000 will have gone into the ton-mile fight by the time Nebraskans step into the voting booths.
 A day after filing his report, Holman said the $3,780 figure "doesn't mean that's all the money I have on hand now."
 The statement, Holman said, was "all that I was required to file."
 But Robert Crosby, attorney for the better roads committee, said the report indicates the opponents did not intend to stick to the spirit of the law.
 There's a device used to get around one main group reporting a large sum of money in sponsoring or fighting a proposal.
 Other groups foot a lot of the costs and their members are not affiliated directly with the parent group. And, it follows, they do not have to report the money they spend.
 Holman said he knew of several trucking and other groups that had spent money throughout the state in opposition to the ton-mile tax.
 Thus, in theory the law may be good, but in practice it doesn't record anywhere near all the money that goes for a particular issue or candidate.

Road Plans—
 It will be about February 1 before citizens know which roads will be built in Nebraska during the 1957-59 period.
 The road building plans will go on the drawing board November 14-16 at a meeting of division engineers of the highway department.

 State Engineer L. N. Riss said the finishing touches will be put on the plans at a December meeting with the advisory state highway commission.
 Then, the highway department will prepare a booklet—as it has done in the past—telling the exact roads to be built and the construction priority attached to each.

Seaton Optimistic—
 Nebraska's member of President Eisenhower's cabinet, Fred Seaton of Hastings says he can see nothing but a good future ahead for the state.
 Seaton stopped briefly in the state during a 40,000-mile speaking tour.
 Now Secretary of Interior, Seaton said the state's large supply of underground water and available land will bring "no outcome except expansion of industry and business."

Fridays and Mondays have been designated as "Page day" at Atkinson, where a building project is under way—a home for Rev. Charles Phipps, president of this Wesleyan Methodist district. Rev. Byrl Baty and Otto Terrill reported for work on Friday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Jess Bolin and daughters, Ura and Marian, of Lincoln were Thursday to Sunday visitors in the home of a mother, Mrs. Hester Edminsten. They also visited other relatives and friends, going Sunday to the Ludvig Pochop home at Brunswick for dinner on their way to Lincoln.
 Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Page and family were Thursday supper guests at the Wesleyan parsonage.

The Hastings publisher defended the administration's record in the field of reclamation. And, he said, he feels confident the next sessions of congress will make it possible to build the Ft. Randall-Grand Island power line to ease the heavy electrical load during the summer irrigation season in Nebraska.

Expenditures—
 State Treasurer Ralph Hill has compiled the regular two-year report on state spending.
 His report showed Nebraska shelled out $55,683,968 during the two-year period ending June 30, 1956, from the property-tax supported general fund.
 On that date, Hill stated, the general fund had a balance of $3,821,464.
 And, said Hill, the treasury had on hand June 30, $38,559,368 from all sources. Of that total $30,057,102 was deposited in banks and $8,500,000 invested in U.S. securities.
 In addition, the state had $35,706,729 invested in permanent trust funds.

membership class that will include 20 or more members as a result of the recent evangelistic visitation.
 Mr. and Mrs. Russell Langley visited with Mrs. Carrie Townsend on Wednesday, October 24, enroute from Bassett to their home at Tekamah.
 Mr. and Mrs. Haney Howerter, former occupants of the depot here, were Monday to Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray.
 Mr. and Mrs. William Neubauer were hosts Friday evening for supper and the evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Bolin and daughters, Ura and Marian, all of Lincoln and F. G. Albright and son, Sterling, of Sioux City. Other guests were Mrs. Albright, Mrs. Hester Edminsten and Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Ickes and Denny. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wood, also of Lincoln, were evening guests.
 Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham of Lindsey were Sunday supper guests of his parents, Mr.

Dodge Street in Omaha. Built in 1948, the pavement is 60 ft. wide.

THE tremendous yardage of concrete paving listed at the right is an investment that will benefit Nebraska taxpayers for years to come. Estimated cost to property owners averages only $10 per year for a 50-ft. lot, based on a pavement life of 30 years.
 The cost could well be far less because concrete pavement can be built to last 50 years or more.
 Yes, you really save money when your streets are paved with low-annual-cost concrete. Concrete's low cost per year is the result of its moderate first cost combined with lower maintenance cost and longer life than any other types of pavement.
 Concrete streets are safer, too—wet or dry, night or day. They are easier to keep clean and cost less to illuminate. They improve the appearance of any neighborhood and enhance its property values.
 When your street needs improving, ask that it be paved with concrete. Safe, durable concrete saves you money by giving better service at lower annual cost.
