Atkinson Prisoner In-Again, Out-Again

Nelson Gibson, 32, was found guilty in municipal court in Atkinson on charges of assault and battery. He was given a choice of 30 days in jail, one hundred dollar fine or the opportunity to leave town for 90 days.

Monday, however, he was placed in the Holt county jail to begin serving the term. When the Atkinson city officials learned the fee would be $1.75 per day, the police came for their prisoner Tuesday morning.

Gibson had violated a county parole and Atkinson officials had reasoned the parole violation would take precedence over the assault charges.

STUART-Mrs. Alice Axtell, Holt county's oldest pioneer, will celebrate her 105th birthday anniversary on Sunday, November

Born in New York, she came west with her parents because it was feared she had tuberculosis and doctors recommended a change of climate. Her maid-en name was Alice Butterfield. She came to Holt county in 1880 and lived on the parental homestead north of Stuart in the Dustin community until her marriage in 1886 to Joseph Axtell. She later lived on a home-stead in Keya Paha county. Mrs. Axtell has endured the hardships of the pioneer and outlived her eight brothers and

She now lives with her only daughter, Pearl Axtell, in the northeast part of Stuart. Old friends will call to congratulate her on Saturday but her health does not permit a big celebration.
