WJAG Gets National Farm Safety Award

Radio station WJAG of Norfolk (780 kc) is among a small but select group of radio and television stations to receive the coveted National Safety Council's 1955-56 public interest award for exceptional service to farm safety. The announcement and presentation of this award was made at a luncheon Sunday, November 25, given by the council for the National Association of Television and Radio Farm Directors in the towers of the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, Ill.

Jim Deitloff, WJAG's farm service director, accepted the award in behalf of the Norfolk station.

This was the second consecutive year for the station to be nominated to receive the award. Last year WJAG was among 28 stations across the nation to be honored.

The award is presented for contribution to farm safety through, special farm safety programs, references to farm safety on regularly scheduled programs, special announcements, and special activity during national farm safety week.

During that week, WJAG tape recorded interviews with farm accident victims in the northeast Nebraska area.

Jim Deitloff had this to say about the honor:

"We are all concerned, of course, with the death and disability, grief, and financial loss caused by accidents among farm people and city folks alike. And we at WJAG are all eager to help in every way we can in the fight against accidents. The National Slogan 'Safety Pays All Ways' is most certainly true."

More farm residents are killed by accident than in any other major occupation. The number of farm residents—men, women and children—killed accidentally last year was 13,000. . . and 1,100-000 others were disabled.

AK-SAR-BEN AIDS STUDENTS . . .

Each year Ak-Sar-Ben grants scholarships to enough students to make up the entire student body of the average small college!

More than 200 scholarships and fellowships are offered annually. Principally, they are grants to aid in the study of agriculture because Ak-Sar-Ben believes that anything that helps the farmer and rancher will help all of us in this area.

Ak-Sar-Ben sponsors 100 scholarships and 2 fellowships at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, 20 scholarships for post graduate study by County Agents, 15 grants to aid vocational agricultural instructors to increase their knowledge, 20 scholarships at the Curtis, Nebraska, School of Agriculture, 36 scholarships at Iowa State College, and 12 scholarships at Nebraska independent colleges. Then there are scholarships for agricultural judging teams and loan funds for needy students at Nebraska, Creighton and Omaha Universities.

This program is made possible by revenues from thoroughbred racing.

FACTS ABOUT AK-SAR-BEN

Nebraska farmers and ranchers sell a lot of hay and feed to owners of horses that participate in Nebraska race meetings. At Ak-Sar-Ben alone, the feed costs are $150,000 each year. Licenses to help stage Ak-Sar-Ben races are granted yearly to about 2,500 midwesterners.

We're learning that the "good earth" is good to us only when we're good to it. We know that it's necessary to put back into the soil as much as we take out. As an aid in solving mysteries of the soil, Ak-Sar-Ben has furnished testing equipment to Nebraska colleges.

Grass roots research is going on in the Sandhills. Nebraska ranchers are cooperating with the State Extension Service to develop better range grasses. This project benefiting the state's important cattle business, is one of many that Ak-Sar-Ben helps finance with its racing revenues.
