Church Leader Urges Fearlessness

"God has entrusted in you leaders the most precious thing—His holy Christian church."
The speaker was Dr. William Von Sprecklensen of Orlando, Fla., executive secretary of the Florida-Georgia district of the Lutheran church, Missouri synod. He was addressing 174 congregational leaders representing Lutheran churches at O'Neill, Chambers, Atkinson, Spencer, Lynch, Butte, Fairfax, Ainsworth, Crookston and Jamison.

The North-Nebraska church leaders' conference, a dinner affair, was held at the American Legion auditorium here.

Doctor Von Sprecklensen, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., was introduced by Rev. Walter H. Hartmann of Ainsworth.

"Privilege of building His church is the greatest privilege of all," the Florida church leader continued.

"Borrowing from history, he said 'a lack of centrality caused certain failures in Christendom.'

"The Crusaders set about to win heathens and said it was the will of the Lord. But there was no centrality; the cross of Jesus Christ was not dominant among them."

Doctor Von Sprecklensen attacked the excesses in the use of the perpendicular pronoun—"I."

"Unless across that simple pronoun is thrust a horizontal beam, symbolizing the cross on which Christ was crucified, the pronoun 'I' is in blight."

"Half of the eight thousand babies born each day in our America are born into the arms of unchurched," he told the Lutheran lay leaders. "We need intrepid, fearless people who will take it upon themselves to win souls."

The Florida church leader said he was greatly impressed with the "great and tremendous sandhills of Nebraska."

"My thoughts turned to the pioneers who came to this huge, cruel and unyielding land to find and make a way of life. These men and women were intrepid and fearless."

In an exclusive tape-recorded interview for Saturday's "Voice of The Frontier" program (WJAB, 730 kc, 9:30-9:55 a.m.), Doctor Von Sprecklensen was quizzed on the segregation-integration strife in the South.

"Admittedly there are some tense spots," he said, "in part brought on by the fact that a great many people do not understand the Southern viewpoint; also, they do not understand the tremendous pressure brought on by a number of very fine Negro people."

"The groundwork for integration has not yet been properly laid but with patience and understanding, and under the influence of the churches in the right direction, the South will solve its problem."

"I have been living 20 years below the Mason-Dixon line and I have been working with Negro congregations for nine years. There are distinct problems in racial matters and there is no rule of thumb. What works in Miami does not necessarily work in Atlanta; at Montgomery and Birmingham you have a different climate and a different set of problems."

"Northerners are sometimes very enthusiastic about integration, but many of them do not see, or close their eyes to, segregation in the North which is just as vicious as any in the South."

"Integration is a social problem that will take many years, and will require a great deal of patience and a great deal of understanding to work it out under church leadership. It cannot be brought about overnight and it cannot be forced successfully."

Macaroni and cheese, that budget stand-by for meatless meals, can take on party airs when given a new twist or two. Add a flourish with different seasonings of a little onion, Worcestershire sauce and some chopped green olives. Add a couple of eggs so that the mixture will set firmly when baked and cut into even squares for serving. Crown each square with a thick tomato slice and a slice of olive and you have a dish pretty as a picture.
Cheese—the most important ingredient of such casseroles should always be a well-aged natural cheddar for maximum flavor.
There's a new already shredded sharp-aged cheddar cheese on the market that saves precious time and is so easy to use. Each 4-ounce transparent bag holds exactly 1 cupful and is designed to keep the cheese moist and fluffy until opened. Simply pour the cheese from the opened package and use it to top salads or casserole dishes, melt it in sauce or use it in any recipe calling for shredded cheese.
