Politicking Hectic As Deadline Nears
LINCOLN—The office-seekers were playing showdown this week in Nebraska. From county commissioner hopefuls to presidential aspirants, the clock will run out when the polls close next Tuesday in Nebraska's April 1 primary. Politicking gets hectic as the deadline nears and this year was no exception.

the New Hampshire and Minnesota primaries where he received thumping write-in votes, touched off a campaign here to urge voters to write in their presidential preferences. Republican voters will find only two names printed on their ballots Harold E. Stassen and Mary Kenny.

nessee Sen. Estes Kefauver.
Polls by the Lincoln Journal and the Omaha World-Herald showed that Taft was the popular choice in Nebraska, so there remained the possibility that a write-in drive might backfire against the Ike boosters. Meanwhile, John B. Quinn, of Lincoln, Stassens' Nebraska manager, said, "We still like our position."

Mrs. Kenny is a Lincoln housewife who's running under the banner of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Democrats have a choice between Oklahoma Sen. Robert S. Kerr and Ten-

Kerr-Kefauver
Not all the presidential palaver was on the republican side of the fence. Stumping the Cornhusker state seriously have been Senators Kerr and Kefauver. Speaking at Kearney, the bluff Oklahoman attacked Kefauver's foreign policy: "It is apparent that under the Federal Union of Atlantic Countries, as proposed by Senator Kefauver, the United States of America would no longer be a free, sovereign nation. It would merely be one of the states in a new federal union."
The crime-busting Tennesseean, who defeated President Truman in the New Hampshire primary, stumped the state meanwhile, calling for "new faces" in the administration.

Peterson vs. Butler
One thing Senator Kerr managed to touch off was a running battle of words between Gov. Val Peterson and Sen. Hugh Butler, rivals for the republican nomination to the U.S. senate. When Kerr called Peterson "one of the poorest excuses for a governor," Peterson immediately charged that the Oklahoman was campaigning for Butler. This brought an indignant denial from the white-haired Nebraska senator.
