The Nelson family reunites—first time in more than 20 years. Seated: Nels Peter Nelson, Jr., of Millsboro, Dela.; Mr. and Mrs. Nels Peter Nelson; R. H. Nelson, of Lanham, Md.; standing—Fredrick L. Nelson of Lincoln; Donald R. Nelson of San Jose, Calif.; Bernard A. Nelson of Lincoln; Mrs. John (Margaret) Soennichsen of Stamford, Conn.; Mrs. Elvyn (Gertrude) Allen of Bristow, and Curtis Nelson of Aiken, S.C. — The Frontier Photo.

The Nelson family home in Bristow was the scene of the basket dinner. Their farm home was destroyed by fire in 1948 after which the Nelsons moved into Bristow. Over three hundred guests attended the open-house. — The Frontier Photo.

6 Nelsons Serve During Late War

A half-block south of the business district. Mrs. Claire Van Hove kept the guestbook which soon overflowed with names of relatives and friends.

Mr. Nelson was born at Assens, Denmark, December 13, 1874. He came to this country with his parents when he was two-years-old, initially settling in Wisconsin. Later, he moved with his parents to the Leona community 20 miles northeast of O'Neill, now known as the Hansen locality.

When Boyd county was abandoned as an Indian reservation and was opened up for settlers, Mr. Nelson was too young to file a claim.

The family homesteaded one mile east and four miles south of Niobrara on rugged land overlooking the Niobrara river. When he became eligible, young Mr. Nelson filed on a claim alongside his father's place.

Mrs. Nelson, whose maiden name was Mary Eliza McGill, was born near Tilden, Antelope county, August 25, 1880. When a child she moved to South Dakota with her parents, living there one year and later returning to Nebraska—Knox county, near Verdell.

Mr. Nelson's farming career was interrupted by the Spanish-American war. He volunteered to serve with the First South Dakota regiment in the Philippines Islands.

Upon returning from a year and a half of war, he married "Mollie" on June 26, 1902, at her father's farm home. They set up housekeeping on Mr. Nelson's homestead where they continued to reside until their home was destroyed by fire January 17, 1948. It was then they moved into Bristow to retire.

Besides rearing a family of nine children, including seven sons and two daughters, they provided a home for Mr. Nelson's father and mother until his parents died.

During World War II six members of the family were in Uncle Sam's military uniform. Mrs. John (Margaret) Soennichsen of Stamford, Conn., served as an army nurse with the Seventh army as it moved north from Africa across the Mediterranean and into France and Germany.

Curtis, who is now a civil engineer located at Aiken, S.C., served as a lieutenant-colonel. He was assigned to the famous Manhattan project (atomic energy group).

Until two years ago he was U.S. liaison officer to Canada in connection with atomic research. Curtis now heads the new hydrogen bomb plant at Aiken—biggest project of its kind in the world.

His wife is the former Eileen Anthony of Landon, N.D., and they have four children.

Bernard A. was a marine corps flyer—a captain. He served in the southwest Pacific theater and is now a mechanical engineer, working for the gas and light company in Lincoln. He is married to Jean Macoy of Holdrege. They have two children.

Frederick ("Finn") was in the navy and served aboard the Philadelphia, a heavy cruiser, in the Mediterranean. He is now the manager of the Giles dairy near Lincoln. Frederick's wife is the former Edna Neumiller of Napier. They have two children.

Nels, Jr., was also in the navy but did not get overseas. He is now associated with his father-in-law in the poultry business at Millsboro, Dela. He is married to Louise Williams and they have two children.

John began his combat duty with the navy off the shores of Africa and was killed in Sicily. Three Nelsons—John, Margaret and Frederick—were involved in North African landings early in the war.

The oldest daughter, Mrs. Elvyn (Gertrude) Allen of Bristow, has three children and resides on a farm near Bristow.

Donald works for a steel company in San Jose, Calif. He has two children and his wife is the former Penelope Mortimer of Monterey, Calif.

R. H. resides at Lanham, Md., where he is employed by the U.S. department of agriculture. He is married to Mabel Bowman of Lincoln and they have two children.

Four of the sons are graduates of the University of Nebraska. Three hundred guests were estimated in attendance.

Those from a distance, besides the Nelsons' sons and daughters, were: Mrs. Verne Rowley of Washington, D.C.; Mrs. C. W. Jones of Denver, Colo., sister of Mrs. Nelson; Mrs. Robert Johnson and children of Tacoma, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. John Rowe, of Storm Lake, Ia.
