Air Troupe to Appear July 20th

Legion Brings Stellar Air Acrobats to Municipal Airport

A topnotch air show troupe will come to O'Neill Sunday, July 20, and present a 10-act performance at the Municipal airport. It will be the third annual air show sponsored by Simonson post 93 of the American Legion.

The show will start at 1:30 p.m. and continue for several hours. It is the Midwest Air Show troupe featuring the famous Cole brothers—Duane and Marion.

Duane will do dead-stick acrobatics. He is the holder of the world's first inverted air race title. He will race by the field upside down.

Capt. Ray Henry will do the famous ribbon cutting act, which requires rare skill and precision. Captain Henry will also land his speeding plane atop a moving automobile (eight square feet of surface).

Howard Libersky, one of the smallest stunt men in the business and an airman who has performed in O'Neill before, will bring you some of the biggest thrills, flying his high-powered Rose Parakeet.

For the fifth act Captain Henry will takeoff from the roof of a car.

First act after the intermission will be Libersky's reckless 10,000-foot power spin, followed by a series of aerial acrobatics by Duane Cole.

The Cole-Peters wing act will be one of the top thrills. Eldon Peters will fly inverted strapped to the wing of an inverted seedling plane piloted by Marion Cole.

The finale will feature Eldon Peters in a delayed parachute jump.

In addition, the Legion has carded the County Fair Show, a carnival, to appear in O'Neill Saturday and Sunday. There will be dancing both Saturday night and Sunday night at the Legion auditorium.

Teacher Shortage in Northern Holt
A serious problem confronts Holt county in the matter of teachers for the rural school districts. At the present time the county is faced with the same difficulty that is noticeable throughout the nation, namely an acute teacher shortage.

According to the latest report, there is a lack of 40 or 50 teachers, especially in the northern portion of the county. The average salary for teachers in this region is $200 per month.

There was a total of 127 rural schools during the last term. If the teacher shortage is not met, it will be necessary to make other arrangements to accommodate the school children during the 1952-53 term.

Nearly 4,900 Car Licenses in Holt

The directory shows the passenger license holder with the plate "36-1" is Joe Brewster of Stuart while the last number on the list, "36-4900", is in the name of Robert E. Geary of Inman. The number in the middle, "36 2450", is held by Alfred Schaff of Atkinson.

The license plate bearing the number "36-3636" belongs to Catherine Hamilton of Stuart. Lloyd D. Holliday of Orchard has number "36-666." Alva L. Scholz of Inman is up to date with number "36-1952."

Approximately 100 license plates have been issued to car dealers. The approximate number of farm truck licenses is 1,100 and commercial truck licenses issued are in the neighborhood of 900.

The Smiths . . . Carolyn, 10; Mrs. Smith; Roger, 5; Reverend Smith; Warren Lee, 13.

Missionary Family Returns to U.S.

CHAMBERS—The Rev. and Mrs. Ward R. Smith and children, Warren, Carolyn, and Roger, arrived here last Thursday on furlough from their mission station at Tocomacho, Honduras, Central America, where they are former Chambers residents.

The Smiths have been in Honduras for three years. En route home they traveled by boat to LaCeiba, then on horseback for four days to Trujillo. The trip to New Orleans, La., was made by plane, and from there to Omaha by train. The family was met at Omaha by Vernon Smith.

Their trip from Omaha to Chambers was their first automobile ride in two years, except for a bus trip to Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, a few months ago.

Although the Smiths left their mission station two weeks ago, all but two days of the time was consumed in getting from Tocomacho to Trujillo.

Reverend and Mrs. Smith told of some of their Central American missionary experiences on the Wednesday morning "Voice of the Frontier" program (WJAG, 780 k.c.) They are supported in their work by the Memorial Baptist church of Chambers, which has an impressive record in the realm of world Christian service, Technically, the Smiths are independent missionaries.

"We are concerned mainly with bringing the word of God to the many natives down here who otherwise would not be hearing the word," explains the kindly, small-statured Chambers man.

"It's easy for Americans to learn about God because of radios and literature. But for the natives it's different. They have a language impediment—it is difficult to learn and use; they have very few Christian churches and the few are far between. Transportation is very limited. The only travel where we've been is by sea, horse, canoe or foot."

"We are intending to build a school," Reverend Smith continued, "in which we may further the gospel work in a more concentrated way."

"We are located about 15 degrees north of the equator in Honduras. We are about two-thirds the way down the Honduras sea coast."

"Our work has been principally with three tribes. One of the tribes originated in Africa. They are called Caribs. One of the other tribes are actually Indians but less dark than the Caribs. The third tribe are a mixture of Spanish and Indian. They speak three different languages but Spanish seems to be a common denominator."

"These natives are unbelievably primitive and live in villages. It's strange because Honduras is only about 800 miles by air from New Orleans."

"The natives work completely by hand. One tool is universal—the machet, the missionary explained. The natives use the machet to work through brush, till soil, plant and harvest their crops of rice, beans and corn . . . even as a weapon. When Reverend Smith displayed the machet to the Frontier reporter, a "USA" trade mark was noted on the stainless steel blade.

The Baptist minister explained that some natives fashioned their own machets—a weird-looking gadget—but American manufacturers have been able to mass produce a much better machet that appeals to the natives.
