Huskies Might Be Tough Come Autumn

Futuring in University of Nebraska football: Not so long ago, Coach Bud Wilkinson of the champion Oklahoma team decided to give the go-by to Oklahoma heat and went up into Minnesota where he played some mighty football as a member of Gopher teams.

And by the way, did you know that up north they sometimes call that "go-for"? Meaning get some touchdowns.

Anyways, Wilkinson stopped off in Minneapolis and promptly somebody asked him about Big Seven football.

Said Wilkinson: It looked to me very much as if Kansas would be the team to beat this fall.

Oklahoma might have a soft spot here or there, but would be pretty good.

Nebraska should be better and could cause a lot of trouble.

Nebraska's Bill Glassford will agree in part, at least. Nebraska, deeper and more experienced, should be better. And, Bill will agree, the Huskies could give somebody the cold shoulder just when it hurt the worst.

That is, if old man injury will use to his jinx and join up with somebody else. You'll recall how injury kept Bob Reynolds from being the expected jolting junior and jolted a lot of other Huskies out of action at critical moments.

But that's enough of that. What we really started out to do was scan the schedule. It ain't soft.

Sure, there are signs of a soothing start—maybe.

The Huskies will get past South Dakota smoothly in the September 27 opener. Then comes one that Glassford puts great store by. The Glassford gladiators travel to Oregon and Bill says that's an honest-to-gosh gong clanger.

Then the Huskies come home for Iowa State and Kansas State. There's a possibility that Nebraska could then be 4-0, or 3-1. But the fans would be football foolish to look back and not forward.

For the schedule then will show a solid array of six slugging foes awaiting—three of them to be met on foreign fields.

It will be Nebraska at Penn State, at Colorado, at home to Missouri, at Kansas, at home to Minnesota, at Oklahoma. Every one of those clubs crowned the Huskies last fall. Four of them did the job on Nebraska's field.

And note, too, that Nebraska must meet Wilkinson's top choice—Kansas—at Kansas, and Oklahoma—never less than cohamption in Wilkinson's years there—at Oklahoma.

Riverside 4-H Club Goes to Neligh—On Friday, July 4, the members of the Riverside 4-H club and their parents gathered at the Ralph Van Horn home at five o'clock and at 5:45 left for Neligh in Mr. Van Horn's truck.

On the way home we were caught in the rain and got pretty wet but we had lots of fun anyway.

On Sunday we had a picnic at the Charles Boyle home. Everyone went swimming in the afternoon.

Wednesday night we went to a dance at Bernard Pongratz's. The dance was in honor of Joe Ramold who is home on furlough.

Sunday, June 29, we also went swimming and in the evening we had a wiener roast.

13 counties Show Decrease in Assessments

Tax Commissioner Philip Johnson reports that 13 of 40 Nebraska counties turning in assessment compilations to date have reported a decrease from 1951 in tangible property assessments.

They are Burt, Cedar, Dixon, Washington, Wayne, Saline, Seward, Fillmore, Nance, Hamilton, Pawnee, Polk and Pierce.

The total for the 40 counties is about $371 million up $2.8 million from last year.

Short crops last year have so far brought a goodly increase in corn and wheat assessments, but even so the tax commissioner believes the total assessment figure will be above the $3 billion mark.

New construction and higher motor vehicle assessments play a big part in keeping the total up, the commissioner explained.
