

Lakes Coaxing, Careful Maneuvering to See That 3 Children Eat Fresh Vegetables, Etc.

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

This is the season of the year when lots of potato salad is served. Potato salad is fine and I like to throw in this and that in the seasonal line such as a little chopped celery, chopped green pepper, sliced radishes, etc. If made a few hours in advance of serving and set in refrigerator it has more flavor.

If you don't have any of the above seasonings try using some celery salt. It gives added flavor. I often use sandwich filling (mayonnaise type, instead of the usual salad dressing when making potato salad or stuffing eggs. Both give added color and flavor.

There is just one thing about potato salad:

It should be kept under refrigeration for it can be about as lethal as anything you can eat if left in heat, particularly in humid weather.

Don't eat potato salad that has stood for hours in hot weather if you don't keep it refrigerated.

I always use my little egg slicer gadget when I make potato salad and slice one extra hard boiled egg and use part of it as a garnish for the top of the salad. If served in lettuce cups it's very pretty and appetizing. Give it a sprinkle of paprika sometimes for an extra bit of color.

I bought a clothes dampening bag the other day. It's very simple and easy to use. You simply drop the clothes to be ironed into the bag a piece at a time and do not roll or fold. Pour about half a cup of water around the top of each 6 inch layer as you put the clothes in the bag. Then press the clothes into the bag, squeeze out the air and close the zipper. In about two hours of overnight clothes are evenly dampened and ready to iron. If it's real hot, slip them in the refrigerator overnight.

Working Gal Wins Subscription—Dear Blanche,

My, this time of year surely keeps on scurrying from one task to another—especially you working girls who have a family. The morning starts at 6 o'clock for me and each day has it's routine tasks with the washing to hang out on Monday, ironing on Tuesday, mending on Wednesday, Thursday to catch up on odds and ends, and Friday for cleaning. Sandwiches in between tasks are
