Tennessee Boyhood Pals Reunited

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Parker of O'Neill were surprised Friday morning when Mr. and Mrs. Tom Molyneux and grandson, Harry Young, all of Rockport, Tenn., stopped for dinner and a few hours visit with the Parkers. They were on their way to Everett, Wash., to visit a son, who is seriously ill. They had made the 1,250 mile trip from Rockport to O'Neill in less than two days. Mr. Parker and Mr. Molyneux were boyhood friends and schoolmates in Tennessee. They had not seen each other for over 30 years. Each declared he would have known the other had they met unexpectedly.

They had many hearty laughs over pranks and experiences of their boyhood to days, which they took time to recall in the short period together. One observer listening in on their reminiscences, asked if the boys of yesterday fell short of the youngsters of today in mischief and ideas for excitement. The Molyneuxs have owned and operated a lumber yard in Rockport for many years. They recently sold the yard and are now retired from business. Mr. Young was associated with his grandfather in the lumber business.

The Parkers described Mrs. Molyneux as a gracious little lady with a delightful southern accent. This was their first trip to this part of the United States. They were favorably impressed with the country, they said. Misses Lorraine and Lita June Ernst, granddaughters of the Parkers, were also dinner guests on the same day.

State School Funds $4 1/2 Million Richer

2,300 New Leases to Expire in 1964

The state's school funds are $4,243,233 richer as a result of the all-but-finished job of auctioning 2,300 state school land leases.

Henry Bartling, secretary to the state board of educational lands and funds, gave the summary Saturday. The big auctioning job started last September in obedience to a state supreme court decree outlawing the automatic renewal of leases.

There was talk that the auctions would take more than a year and the board of lands and funds would run out of money before all leases could be sold. But Mr. Bartling observed Saturday that 2,273 of the 12-year leases already have been delivered and the board will be able to stretch its budget, "although we'll have to scratch a little."

Approximately 2,300 leases were cancelled in accord with the supreme court decree, which knocked out a 1947 automatic lease renewal law.

All but 33 have been replaced by new 12-year leases. Mr. Bartling said. The 33 are in wheat areas, and will be auctioned as soon as the wheat is harvested, he added.

The state won't face such a big auctioning job for 12 years, when the 2,273 new leases expire, Mr. Bartling noted.

In the meantime other leases, not issued under the unconstitutional 1947 law, will run their normal course. This means some will expire each year, necessitating a number of lease auctions.

Cave-in Foils Try for Water Well

A cave-in of dirt Monday spoiled a try for an urgently needed new well for the city of O'Neill.

The new well site is located on the U.S. highway 281 right-of-way north of the present well sites south of the city.

The well-drillers had dug down only 15 feet when the setback occurred. Another try will be made nearby.

Meanwhile, O'Neill's municipal water picture is grim. Late Monday the city's reservoir was empty because of excessive use of water with limited pumping capacity.

Persons living east of Fourth street are urged to water lawns and gardens sparingly on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays; those west of Fourth on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Citizens are asked to refrain from water usage on Sundays.
