Swanson - Miller Nuptials Are Read

ATKINSON—Miss Mary Mercedes Miller of Atkinson and Fred W. Swanson of Denver, Colo., were united in marriage at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, August 26, at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Atkinson. Rev. Richard J. Parr, pastor of St. Joseph's, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the elder daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. Arthur G. Miller of Atkinson. Mr. Swanson is the son of Mrs. May Swanson of Colorado Springs, Colo., and the late Fred E. Swanson.

Clusters of pale pink asters marked the pews in St. Joseph's church and the altar was decorated with fern and white gladioli.

The bride's gown was of luxurious bluish pink bridal satin fashioned with a sheer nylon yoke framed with imported French lace appliqued, giving an off-shoulder effect. The long, tapering sleeves were pointed at the wrists. From a fitted bodice flared her full skirt with bands of exquisite lace appliqued on the skirt and the cathedral train. Her veil of bluish pink illusion billowed to her fingertips from a shirred cap of illusion accented with tiny pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, Joan Hill roses and stephanotis.

She was given in marriage by her father, Miss Constance Miller, sister of the bride, served as maid-of-honor and was gowned in pompadour rose iridescent taffeta and lace fashioned with a little winged collar, lace bodice, and bouffant tulle skirt. She wore matching lace mitts and a headband of flowers, and carried a colonial bouquet of talisman roses.

Ray Shahound came from Denver to be bestman. The ushers were M/Sgt. B. E. Schultz of Denver, Colo., and E. C. McKay of Atkinson.

Organist was Miss Leona Kil-murry of Atkinson who played musical selections before the ceremony. The soloist, Miss Marde Birmingham of O'Neill, sang "Just For Today," "Ave Maria," "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother" and "I Place My Trust in Thee."

After the vows were exchanged, the bride placed a bouquet of red roses at the Blessed Virgin's altar.

Following the ceremony, breakfast was served to the immediate family and friends at the Legion club in Atkinson. The color scheme of pale pink and white was carried out in the floral decorations. The centerpiece adorning the bride's table was a floral wedding ring amid trailing ivy.

A reception was held in the afternoon at the Miller home. Assisting were friends of the bride who were members of the same Camp Fire group during their high school days.

For traveling, the bride wore a navy orlon wool suit trimmed in pink and navy plaid, topped by a full length fingertip cape of the same material. Her accessories were in navy and pink, and she wore a white orchid corsage.

After a wedding trip the couple will be at home at 7346 E. Severn, Lowry Plaza, Denver, Colo.
