Okay Bond Issue; School Opens Monday

Inman Teachers Will Hold Workshop

INMAN—The voters of Inman school district voted "for" a special bond issue to retire outstanding warrants in a special election held Tuesday, August 19. Of a total of 81 votes, only five voted against the proposed bond issue while 76 voted for it.

Final preparations are now being made to take up the outstanding warrants. The proposed plan must be filed with the state auditor, together with the serial numbers of the outstanding warrants. After the state auditor has examined the bonds and the total procedure, he verifies the fact to the county clerk of the county. The county board then levies the proper amount of tax to pay off the bonds. In this case, the bonds will be paid off in five years.

The bond issue will allow the district to operate on a cash basis when the money for the sale of bonds is turned over to the district.

Registration for the 1952-'53 school term will be held on Monday, September 1, at 9 a.m. Classes will start on Tuesday.

The teachers of Inman public schools will attend a workshop designed to outline the objectives of the coming year, plan the year's work, make suggestions on these objectives, and develop a school philosophy.
