

Ex-Nebraskans in Annual Picnic

It was Ainsworth and Lincoln, "I'm from Brown county" and "I'm from Holt county" at the annual Nebraska picnic, held at the Caldwell, Ida., Memorial park Sunday, August 17. News of the picnic was forwarded to The Frontier by Mrs. R. E. Bowring of Kuna, Ida.

Several thousand former residents of Nebraska, who now live in southwestern Idaho and eastern Oregon, with a few visitors from Nebraska, Washington, Oregon and Colorado, were present for the annual affair. Tables were filled with the food from the farm and the picnicers, most of them sun-tanned farm folk of Canyon county and Ada county, turned to reminiscing during the lunch hour.

The speaker for the occasion was Leo J. Mason, former Caldwell mayor who was in that office when the Nebraskans held their first picnic here, attended by 4,000 persons, in 1949. "I'm very happy to welcome you to Caldwell again," Mason told the group. "You came to Idaho and made it the great state that it is today. You are a fine people, thrifty and energetic, and that is what has built the Boise valley, Idaho and the Northwest. Idaho is new and has just started to grow. I know of no place that is as productive or is a better place to live in than the Boise valley. "Idaho is justly proud to have you former Nebraskans here." The group elected J. E. Daddow of Caldwell president, succeeding Herb Moore of Caldwell who after being in that position for three years refused to run again. Moore was elected vice president and Maude Gephord of Boise secretary.

Leading community singing was Rev. Harold N. Nye, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Nye. Mrs. Ralph Wagener played and music students of Virginia Farmer also provided music for the program.

Homemakers Hear Canning Hints

Mrs. Albert Henning was hostess to the Young Homemakers club Wednesday, August 13. Roll call was answered with a canning hint. Two lessons were given—one on "Make Your Own Cabbage or Nosegay" and the other on "How to Make Rit Nylon Flowers." The lessons were demonstrated by Mrs. George Mellor and Mrs. Ed Etherton, respectively. The members who attended mothers camp at Long Pine gave an interesting report. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Harold Mlinar's at Emmet.—By Mrs. Edwin Krugman, reporter.
