

Nels Jacobson 'Sings for Supper'

Oldest Guest Present at Sunset Banquet

EWING — Nels Jacobson, 88, again carries away the honors at the sunset banquet for having celebrated the greatest number of birthdays. When requested to "sing for his supper," Mr. Jacobson stepped spryly to the piano and sang his favorite hymn and received a grand applause.

William J. Harris, with 87 anniversaries to his credit, was a close second for the honors of the banquet.

The 32d annual sunset banquet was held Thursday evening, September 18, at the parlors of the Ewing Methodist church. Persons eligible were those who had reached their 70th birthday. There were 43 present. Dinners were served to several shut-ins.

With John Walker as master of ceremonies, the program of the evening follows: Registration on arrival; casting of votes in a mock presidential election; question of the evening, "Who was the 25th president?"

Guests were then seated at the tables where a color scheme of gold and white was carried out and the program continued. Blessing—Rev. C. C. Chappell; welcome—Mrs. Henry Fleming, president of the Women's Society of Christian Service; response—Mrs. Andrew Olson; Dinner; solo—Mrs. Walker Kemp; poem—Miss Anna Van Zandt; instrumental music on—autoharp and harmonica by Andrew Olson.

The election results then were given by Mrs. Walker—Eisenhower and Nixon—28; Stevenson and Sparkman—15. In the question of the evening, Mrs. Leota Butler and W. A. Brown gave the correct answer (William McKinley). Each was awarded a prize. The presidential rhyme learned at school came to the aid of several. Many incidents were recalled by the guests of this period in American history and the changes made during their life time, all making interesting conversation.

The evening's program concluded with the presentation of a huge bouquet to Mr. Jacobson and remarks and benediction by Rev. Walter Kemp.

The oldest lingered to chat with old friends. At popular request A. A. Alden sang several of the old favorite songs, with Mrs. Chappell at the piano.

The following WSCS members were committee chairmen: menu and kitchen—Mrs. Earl Billings; tables and decoration—Mrs. William Spence; invitations—Mrs. R. G. Rocky; program—Mrs. Harold Harris.
