Vice Squad Breaks In On Dice Game

Houston, Texas—Songstress Ella Fitzgerald has been known for years as "afflicted" to any kind of card game, shooting dice or just plain gambling for the fun of it. She says it helps while away the time when she's not on stage. This weekend Houston police learned of it, and made a big-to-do over it by taking La Fitzgerald and her co-players Illinois Jacquet, Dizzie Gillespie, Georgiana Henry and Producer Norman Grant all to the station for booking.

All five were rolling dice in Ella's dressing room, when a vice squad broke in just as Illinois was making his point. Led by Sgt. W. A. Scotton, they "beat Jacquet to the pot" and tided off the $185, along with the dice.

Ella was allowed to make her first performance before going down to the station. With her mink stole draped over her blue taffeta gown, Ella said briefly and tearfully; "I have nothing to say. What is there to say I was only having a piece of pie and a cup of coffee."

Which was true, for Miss Fitzgerald was not actually doing the rolling when Scotton's boys dropped in—only Jacquet, Norman Grant, producer of "Jazz at the Philharmonic" posted a $10,000 bond for each of them on the misdemeanor charge they were booked for and drove the lot back to the Music Hall in time for the second show.

DIFFERS FROM VAL WASHINGTON'S REPORT TO PRES. EISENHOWER

Washington, D.C.—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell took off against Republican leaders who have declared segregation at an end at United States' military bases by charging it's not true at all. Powell has just returned from a tour where he talked to from 1,000 to 1,500 men in the Air Force and Army station in North Africa, Spain, England, Italy and other areas.

He said in his report: "Integration in our armed forces is definitely not succeeding. Integration stops at the master sergeant level." Then he goes on to point out that Negroes have difficult time getting officers' commissions and the number of civilians working overseas is "negligible."

Specific references were made to Chaumont, France, where Negroes in the air force were refused service at bars, restaurants and hotels and white soldiers threatened to boycott if they were treated otherwise. He cited this as true, too, in Manston and Margate, England.

Powell told also of bias in the United States' bases in Birmingham, Ala. where a lieutenant who protested against discrimination was given "verbal instructions as regards his future conduct" and in Barksdale Air Force in Louisiana where Negroes had separate clubs for their non-commissioned officers.

Powell directed his report mainly to Val Washington of the Republican National Committee who is regarded as chief Negro publicity expert for the party. Washington had asserted that integration of white and Negro military personnel had been attained and so told President Eisenhower recently.
