KNOW YOUR STATE TRAFFIC LAWS

On slippery roads it sometimes takes up to ten times the distance to stop a car than is required on dry pavement. This is the season when slippery road surfaces are a frequent hazard. Drive at a moderate safe speed and do not follow another car too close.

The state law requires that the driver of a car should not follow another car more closely than is reasonable and safe, having regard to speed, traffic and conditions of the road. If you are driving a truck you must not follow another truck; traveling upon a highway, within three hundred feet.

Watch for next week's traffic law tip, it's smart to be safe. Nebraska Safety Patrol.

RAIN AND MUD SLOW ADVANCE OF 92nd DIVISION

Troops of the 92nd Infantry Division, fighting with the Fifth Army in Italy, are pictured constructing a dyke to keep out fast rising water. Drivers of trucks in background wait to cross the stream, one at a time. Rain and mud have slowed the advance of these Negro soldiers. (Signal Corps Photo from BPR.)

RED CROSS SERVICES HELP NINETY-SECOND MEN GRIN AND BEAR IT

With the 5th Army in Northern Italy... For weeks now the 92nd Division, famous American Negro outfit, has been fighting steadily on its bitterly contested front. Gains have been slow, small and hard fought for. Mines, mud, the misery of cold and the menace of extraordinarily heavy enemy shellfire have impeded progress.

Today, however, the men of the 92nd have much that will help them at least to grin and bear it, much that they did not have when they first went into the line. For the 92nd has gone all out for the services of the American Red Cross, and the men are delighted and proud of these new aids to their comfort and well-being.

When these fighting men first arrived in this theatre from the States, their knowledge of Red Cross services had been gained from the activities of the four Red Cross field men attached to the division. They saw to it that men in the ranks had the advantages of small emergency loans of wear and tear reports on their families, of honest man-to-man advice and counsel on personal matters, of emergency supplies of toilet and comfort articles, and of recreation facilities whenever possible.

Chief of the quartet is Field Director Francis I. Long, 849 Fair St., S. W., Atlanta, Ga., who holds an M.A. degree from the University of Atlanta and possesses an exceptional background in music, education and the social sciences that makes him especially well equipped for his present welfare work with the division.

One of Mr. Long's three assistant field directors is Ernest Hembly, 50 Morris Ave., New York City, also a musician prominent in the work of the Urban League and for several years a worker in the New York City Department of Welfare aid in various other branches of the city government.

The other two Red Cross men are Daniel Lang, 131 Spruce St., Buffalo, N. Y., and Alexander R. Bolden of 659 East 41st St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Once in Italy, the four men began to work for the development of additional Red Cross services for the 92nd. Today the division has its own portable club and clubmobile unit, fully equipped, staffed and successfully operating not far behind the front lines.

The portable club unit, which supplies large-scale facilities for reading writing and recreation, also includes a snack bar. It is expertly directed by Raymond E. Miller, 1708 North 22nd St., Philadelphia. A Howard University graduate who has had nearly 18 months' experience in Red Cross club work overseas. Mr. Miller was formerly engaged in physical education work with the YMCA in Bridgeport, Conn., and Philadelphia, as well as with the Wharton Settlement House in Philadelphia.

Assisting Mr. Miller with the club are four attractive young women. Program director is a former Howard University faculty member, Miss Geneva Howard, of Washington, D. C., and 5119 Prairie Ave., Chicago, Ill. Miss Marie Leach, 71 Rosedale Ave., Montclair, N. J., is assistant program director. Miss Leach was a recreation and club worker with the Montclair YWCA. Staff assistants are Miss Sybil Gowdy, Kingsborough Apts., Brooklyn, New York and Miss Elizabeth Coppin, 809 Artie Ave., Atlantic City, N. J.

Three other young women, all of them staff assistants, comprise the Red Cross clubmobile team, taking cheer in the form of doughnuts and coffee as close to the front lines as possible, and to those isolated units of the 92nd who frequently are unable to take full advantage of the division's portable club.

The clubmobile team includes: Miss Ruth A. Pius, 855 Lincoln Ave., Cincinnati, formerly employed by the Department of Public Welfare there; Miss Viola B. Miller, 935 St. Nicholas Ave., New York City, formerly with the Federated Council of Churches and the Baptist City Society; and another Howard University graduate, Miss Gladys W. Powell, 33 Emerson Road, Boston, Mass.

With the war on this front and others threatening to last throughout the winter, the 92nd Division feels that the American Red Cross has done much to make the lot of its fighting men a bit more bearable.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardul is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

- 1-Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.
- 2-Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardul. If it helps, you'll be glad you did. CARDUL

DOUGHBOY AIDS BIRTH OF BABY IN ITALY

Released by U. S. War Department, Bureau of Public Relations Technician Fourth Grade George McKinney, a member of the 92nd Infantry Division which is fighting with the Fifth Army in Italy, is pictured with Italian mother and newly born baby which he delivered. The birth took place virtually on the front lines as the nearest German observation post was less than a mile away. A former mortician from Atlanta, Georgia, McKinney said the mother named the child after him. The baby's father had been taken away by the Nazis for a labor project. (Signal Corps Photo from BPR.)

SNEAK A SNACK
To solve the always difficult problem of what to eat the evening after a huge noon-day meal, try a snack of donuts and cider or do nuts and milk. Satisfying, delicious and nutritious, the evening snack of donuts and beverages saves big luncheon left-overs for later meals. Try it any Sunday night or the evening after a gala family reunion dinner. Your government warns of the danger of skipping a meal these war-busy days and you know how unwise it is to stuff yourself twice. So solve the problem this simple, easy way that all the family will enjoy.

TEEN-TIMERS CANTEENS
It's teen-timers canteen time these days in hundreds of department stores throughout the country where teen-age youngsters are gathering to swizzle cokes and discuss the latest in fashion world. War-busy mothers are saving time and energy by encouraging their daughters to spend time at the teen-timers canteen rather than entertain the crowd in the living room, the kitchen and all over the house. Why not ask your local store to open a teen-timers canteen.

FOR ART'S SAKE
Now is not the time to give up your war job — but it is time to consider the future. Start now to develop talents that will be demanded by reconversion. If art is your strong-point, study fashion drawing at home. There are many books you can consult. For example, Charlotte Young's Practical Fashion Sketches and Fashion Illustration will launch you on the road to a profitable career in a field facing tremendous postwar expansion. Prepare for the future by studying at home now.

SLEEPYTIME STYLES
Newest innovation in the sleep-wear fashion field is a pajama fashion board dreamed up by designer Harry Berger. Headed by a Tex. as housewife, two working girls and two college girls, the board discusses new tommye pajama styles, offers suggestions in color, fabric and patterns. Models that pass scrutiny of the board are sleep-tested by a girl who actually sleeps in the new garment to report on comfort and style. This pre-testing means less waste for stores and savings for consumers.
