BIRTHDAY PARTY

Fredericka Lucille Clay, 2230 W. 11th avenue, who is seven years old already, had as her guest Sunday afternoon a group of girls and boys at her birthday party. They enjoyed lots of games supervised by Mrs. Arthur Justice, Mrs. Jamie Norman, Mrs. D. Crooms and Mrs. Ryland Melford. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out, the table decorated with lace table cloth, roses and white giant begonia. The pink and white birthday cake showing seven candles and "Happy Birthday" was baked by Fredericka's grandmother, Mrs. L. V. Gray, which they greatly enjoyed along with homemade ice cream, candy and nuts.

Those present were Adrienne Britt, Bonnieta Claxton, Agnes Ann Clay, Ernie Crooms, Jacqueline and Raymond Hall, Arthur Walker, Jr., Andre and Marcia McWilliams, Ryland Melford II, Angelina, Carolyn, Catherine and Eugene Owens, Eula Marie Robinson, A. L. Reynolds III, and Verna Mae Stamps.

Fredericka certainly thinks these youngsters for many lovely gifts.

SURPRISED WITH A PARTY

Mr. L. V. Gray was certainly elated over a surprise birthday party given for him by the choir and members of the Monday night Board of Clair Methodist Church. The group stormed in upon him shortly after he returned home from board meeting, singing "Happy Birthday" just in time to check his efforts to retire for the night inspired of protest on the part of Mrs. Gray and Miss Versie Winston who arrived a few minutes earlier than the group and proceeded to busy themselves in interesting conversation thus banishing thoughts of retiring. Lovely gifts were presented by Mrs. Wesley ones from members of the Monday-Night Board and by Mr. A. L. Reynolds from the choir of Clair Chapel and Mrs. C. E. Vincent. Refreshments were enjoyed by all including a birthday cake and on it was six candles?

Mr. Gray was simply lost for words and feels that no "Thank You" he can say is good enough for this loyal group of co-workers although he wishes to take this method of expressing his many, many thoughts in grateful appreciation to Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Reynolds and members of the choir and board of Clair Methodist Church.

PHYLIS ARNDT

FREDDIE JENKINS

New York City.—He laid down his horn and she set aside her nursing charts, they put their heads together and they wrote an essay on "Race Solidarity".

Freddie Jenkins, a Negro musician, and Phyllis Arndt, a white nurse, have written an essay on "Race Solidarity". The essay is a plea for understanding and cooperation between the races. It is a well-written and thoughtful piece.

THE LITTLE GIRL WHO ALWAYS STUCK OUT HER TONGUE!

There was once a little girl who always stuck out her tongue when someone said anything to her. Her mother always said "Mary, if you don't stop it you will regret it." Mary said, "oh mother you just saying those things to scare me." "Alright," her mother replied, you will see.

That night Mary dreamed that she was at a fire and the chief asked her if she would kindly move out of the way because the fire was coming that way. At the time Mary's mother was tiptoeing into the room, with her hand had some red pepper in her hand. Mary in her dream was sticking out her tongue at the fireman and really was sticking it out. Her mother very gently put the pepper on her tongue.

The next morning Mary got up yelling and crying, "Oh mother! she cried "I am so sorry I didn't mind you, I will never stick out my tongue again!" And she never did.

Mary became a very pretty little girl.

So always wherever you are mind your parents.

ter racial relations, did Freddie Jenkins, former cornet man with Duke Ellington, and Phyllis Arndt, occupational therapist in a New York hospital.

Freddie is Negro and Phyllis is white. Freddie was a convalescent patient in the hospital where Phyllis helps such patients to occupy their convalescent time, to keep them from being bored to death.

Result: Freddie found that Phyllis was interested in better relations among all races, they decided to collaborate on an outline which would mean racial solidarity. They gave it that title—"Racial Solidarity".

Fifteen hundred words they wrote together, in this example of white and black harmony. Excerpts:

"The adherence of all races to basic and fundamental laws of cooperation, mentally, physically, spiritually and otherwise, is of a natural origin and is destined to obviate the shortcomings, social pressure and political difficulties of the entire world."

"Since time began, race discussion has hampered peace efforts and stimulated wars, increased social, economic and industrial difficulties and has been responsible for some embarrassing situations, and circumstances in our military and governmental set-ups."

"We have all observed the grand results obtained in many parts of the world where all races have been more or less put on a reasonably equal basis, and vice versa. Therefore, there should be no difficulty in the masses understanding this most important picture of "Race Solidarity" in a highly workable and practicable stage."

"The average man does not know why he has come to fear and hate his brother. He does not realize that this feeling has been kept alive by those who can profit by this disunity. He has not learned that there is no basis for his prejudice and that his pride in this superiority is an empty shell. He does not see that a merger is for his own good. Race Solidarity seems an impossible, disastrous thing, something to be overlooked, ignored and feared."

The entire essay contains 1500 words and expounds fully the theme of better racial understanding. Jenkins is a former Wilberforce student, worked with Duke several years, does music arranging for Don Redmond; Phyllis hails from Minnesota, attended school there, is keenly interested in racial relations.

and in the palmetto bottoms of South Carolina, me, who after reelection, got themselves elected to the Confederate state legislatures and fought slavery from within.

Now, it's hard to give you a picture of a book like this in the space of a few hundred words. Maybe, I'm partial to the book because Henrietta Buckmaster modeled the character of Simon Bliss after my friend, Don West, a poor white mountain school teacher and preacher who lives in Georgia and who still carries on the fight of his grandpa against slavery.

But I'll say that this book is a must for every Southerner, and for all of our many friends in the North who help us by sponsoring such bills as the one to do away with the poll tax and that one to establish a permanent Fair Employment Practices Committee.

Thanks, Henrietta Buckmaster, born in the North but, along with that other Northerner, Howard Fast adopted by the South—Your book makes us feel that the deep river is going to be dried up for already the people of both colors are starting to cross over.
