OUTING SHOES.

It long ago seemed as though shoes could never be better and never be cheaper, but they are better now and cheaper now than they ever were before. The great every day favorite is our men's and ladies' shoe. It is as much a boon to the pocketbook as it is to the feet. It won't wear you out to wear it out. You don't need to take care of it; it takes care of itself. It will give you solid comfort for the simple reason that a better shoe for knockabout purposes has never been produced. If prices never appealed to you before, the price of this shoe will, for it costs only $2.50. It will look nicer and wear longer than any shoe on earth.

are all gold as far as you can see. They look like solid cases, wear like solid cases, and are solid cases for all practical purposes—yet only cost about half as much as an out-and-out solid gold case. Warranted to wear for 20 years; many in constant use for thirty years. Better than ever since they are now fitted, at no extra cost, with the best bow (ring) which cannot be pulled or twisted off the case—the

The county attorney contest suit of attorney W. R. Starr against Sidney Dodge came up before County Judge Beck at Indianola on Monday, and was dismissed. It has not been seriously considered at any time that the case would prove very annoying to the present incumbent, who doubtlessly was fairly elected by a majority vote.

The family of H. F. Harman are to take their residence on their farm near McCook, Mr. H. having decided to dispose of his property here. His wife and Master Ralph went west last week and Mrs. Kolhamer and the baby will follow shortly. Mr. Harman has no intention of leaving Oxford, however, the aforesaid arrangement being of a temporary nature designed to meet a temporary expedient.—Oxford Standard.

An eastern editor says that a man in New York got himself into trouble by marrying two wives. A western editor replies that a good many men have done the same thing by marrying one. A northern editor says that quite a number of his acquaintances found trouble enough in barely promising to marry and not going any farther. A southern editor says that a friend of his was bothered enough when he was simply found in company with another man's wife.

The Stockville Faber makes the following sensible observations: "One of the worst features the newspaper men have to contend with in this neck o' woods, is the scheme of soliciting legal notices from the attorneys by underbidding their competitors. The attorneys are quick to take advantage of the editor's weakness and are able to drive sharp bargains, often securing as low as fifty per cent of what the statutes allow. The other fifty per cent goes to the attorney and the editor makes a little or nothing simply for the privilege of knocking the other fellow out. Now since every business or trade seems to have made combinations to protect their interests, would it not be a pious idea for the newspapers of a county to have some understanding in this matter? Some of you get your feet under yourselves and show us a sample of the white matter contained in your thinktanks."

It is a mistake for farmer to be led into the notion that the business men in town are their enemies, or that they are reaping great profits. As a matter of fact, the average merchant finds it pretty hard squeezing to get along, pay his bills and pay his help. Yet many a customer has been helped over a tight place by being furnished goods on time until crops are in. And when a subscription is started to build better roads or reimburse the unfortunate man who has been burned out or lost his crops, it soon finds its way to town. Now suppose you close up every store in town but one, how much would it improve your farm? What would it benefit the farmer if all competition was done away with? The fact is the farmer and the business man are identical, and he who attempts to prejudice one against the other is a disturber of confidence that should be mutual between all honest men.

THE ELECTION OF JUDGE ALLEN.

After the most protracted contest that has ever taken place in this state the legislature has elected W. V. Allen to succeed Algernon S. Paddock in the United States senate for the term beginning on the 4th day of March next.

The selection of Judge Allen will in some degree be a disappointment to Republicans as well as Democrats. This is especially true of the business men of both parties, who regard the election of a populist with disfavor because of the radical and eccentric views held by the third party on the currency and other economic issues that tend to disturb commercial confidence and credits. The misapprehension will, however, be dispelled from the fact that Judge Allen is not a hare brained visionary or wild-eyed revolutionist. Quite the contrary; our new United States senator is well balanced, broad minded and conservative. He is by nature and training a man who carefully deliberates upon every issue and does not reach a conclusion until he has weighed both sides.

Mr. Allen stands very high as a lawyer and judge. His career as a citizen in peace and war justifies the belief that he will by no act prove disloyal to the flag or the state. It is conceded that Judge Allen ranks head and shoulders above any other man proposed by the populists in point of ability and honesty of purpose. He is one of the few men who have secured a seat in the United States senate without scrambling for the office, without expending a dollar, and without incurring any obligation to corporations or special interests. For this reason, if for none other, Nebraska is to be congratulated upon the selection made by the legislature.

From the Republican standpoint we do not regard Judge Allen's election as an irretrievable disaster. The party was in the minority in the legislature and could not reasonably expect to force the election of a candidate who would remain loyal to his party after as well as before his election unless they procured the needed votes by corrupt means. To mass the republican votes upon a democrat would have demoralized and disbanded the party. The only honorable course left open was to keep in the middle of the road. That course was decided upon and pursued to the end. If the republicans now fulfil their platform pledges and straighten out the crooked things in the state house they will have a majority in the legislature two years hence and the next senator elected in this state will be a republican.—Bee.

Last night about two o'clock a baggage car and a mail car run out of the McCook yard, running as far east as the "narrows," two miles east of the city, where a light engine No. 86, on her way to the Havelock shops, engineer Meserve in charge, run into them, smashing up the pilot and front end of the engine and reducing the end of the baggage car struck into kindling wood. In the mail car were Frank Hanson of Crete and J. B. Martin of Omaha, both asleep. Hanson's head and lip were cut slightly, and Martin's foot and leg were bruised. They were both able to get out on their run east this morning, however. Engineer Meserve was slightly cut and bruised, but is able to be around. It was a narrow escape. The damaged rolling stock was soon placed in the yard and shop here, and traffic was not long retarded.

A DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE.
The Rationale of the Cure of Chronic Catarrh. How Permanent Cures are Made.

The order in which the symptoms of catarrh occur are nearly always as follows: A cold, which hangs on longer than usual; a sensitiveness of the air passages by which one catches cold easily; a continual settled cold in the head, throat or head; discharge growing thicker and more offensive; loss of flesh, despondency, loss of appetite, headache or cough, and lassitude. Now this is about the order in which symptoms of chronic catarrh make their appearance, and if sufferer is fortunate enough to find a cure the symptoms will begin to disappear in the reverse order. There may be at first no perceptible improvement in the earliest symptoms while the latter symptoms show prompt improvement.

This is exactly what Pe-ru-na will do in the cure of chronic catarrh: It first invigorates the system, increases the appetite, then the patient begins to gain flesh, hope takes the place of despondency, and all the mischievous symptoms which the chronic catarrh has produced will disappear one by one in the reverse order of their appearance. The last symptoms to yield are often the ones which the patients expect to disappear first, but all should remember that the first symptoms to appear will be the last to disappear, while the last ones to appear are usually the first ones to disappear. Cures made in this way are permanent cures. A patient cured by Pe-ru-na is no more liable to catarrh than as if he had never had it.

A complete treatise on chronic catarrh in all its stages and complications will be sent free, on application by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, O.
